Shaw Sees Lenin.
The Bootleg Technique.
Such Is Civilization.
Gautama's Dead Beggar.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW and Lady Nancy Astor are in Moscow. Lady Astor will see a great deal; Mr. Shaw will talk a great deal, and interestingly. Mr. Shaw demanded to be taken immediately to the tomb in the Red square, where the body of Lenin, preserved to look almost as it did in life, lies under glass, admired by passing millions.

AS HE LOOKS at the firm face of Lenin, who saw his brother executed by order of the Czar and then issued the order to execute the Czar and his family, Shaw will meditate on the difference between words and deeds.

There in the Red square lies a man of deeds. His name will last in history thousands of years after the early date when Shaw's name will be forgotten, with those of other ingenious but petty writers.

OUR DEPARTMENT of State complains pathetically that Canadian rum runners, among others the Cadet, of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, produce obnoxious gas by mixing dangerous chemicals in the engine exhaust. This device blinded and permanently injured the eyes of the crew on one of our Coast Guard boats.

BOOTLEGGERS AND rum runners on land and sea constantly improve their technique. Bootleggers have smoke cloud attachments on high-powered automobiles and, when pursued by police, seeking to arrest them or divide the load, or its profit, the smoke screen is used. It becomes, then, dangerous for the police to go through the smoke cloud.

That idea might have been borrowed from the devilfish, that spreads an inky cloud in the water.

UNCLE SAM has hard work, annoyance and expense with his prohibition.

In Baltimore a federal grand jury has just finished inquiries lasting since 1929, costing $500,000.

Fifty-three corporations, spreading over New York, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, are accused of wholesale distribution of alcohol for drinking purposes. It may interest drinkers to know that some of it was made from preparations used to kill insects, and some by redistilling "paint solvents."

It is difficult to enforce a law when the public does not want it enforced.

IF YOU COME back to earth 10,000 years hence and find philosophers of that day lumping this 1931 period of what we call "civilization" under the general heading of "universal barbarism," you need not be surprised.

Cannibals kill a Belgian official in the Congo. Then the Belgian officials kill 57 natives with machine guns. Nobody invited the whites in, but that doesn't help the natives.

IN SEVILLE, Spain, yesterday, two workmen were killed by police, and 30 others shot, in strikes called "revolutionary." The strikers were demanding food.

A reliable committee discovers in Brooklyn, biggest of the five boroughs that make up Greater New York, such corruption and vice, thoroughly organized, as seems utterly beyond belief.

And across the East River in Manhattan, official, political and judicial dishonesty is organized on a scale of profit running to gigantic totals.

Shooting, stealing, bootlegging, hijacking, racketeering, among individuals here, in "the land of the free and the home of the brave," such is our civilization.

AUSTIN J. ROCHE, police chief of Buffalo, N. Y., says America is "the most lawless country in the world," and adds:

"God only knows where we are drifting. Stop this parade to the prisons by boys and girls. Once a boy or girl goes to prison, he is never again the same. He is forever branded like they used to brand cattle in the West."

Perhaps our philanthropists, judges and lawmakers could invent some better prison for young people than one in which they play baseball for exercise, go to moving pictures for amusement, and take lessons in crime from older criminals, for their education.

PRESIDENT HINDENBURG'S appeal to President Hoover, now made public, convinces any doubters that the President's prompt action was necessary and timely, and that Germany's financial death was not far away.

It is said that the Prince Gautama, moved by the sight of a beggar's body, rotting beside the path, was turned to serious thought, and the result was the Buddhist religion.

A dead Germany, lying in the path of world progress, would produce no such useful result.

WHEN OUR EIGHT new 10,000-ton cruisers went to sea, it was found that cracks developed in an important part of the structure. That can be remedied by rebuilding in part. Now the cruisers are found to roll so badly that accurate gun fire is impossible. Tanks and bilge keels will be installed, and perhaps will prevent that.

As for the rolling difficulties, they would be much simplified in war. A bombing plane would drop a few thousand pounds of high explosives into the water,

Pittsburgh Youth Drowns at Canadian Camp

FOUR SAVED FROM LAKE BY Y.M.C.A. LEADER

Victim Graduated From Langley, Played in Band; Night Student at Tech

Winfield (Buddy) Bailey's last drawing lies uncompleted in the drafting room of his uncle's engineering firm, the W. M. Bailey Engineering Sales Company.

Bailey, aged 20, was drowned in Lake Muskoka, near Midland, Ont., where 30 young men from the Pittsburgh Downtown Y. M. C. A. had gone to spend part of a two week's camping trip. A small rowboat in which five of the "Y" campers were riding sank.

The other four were rescued, witnesses said, through the coolness of George L. Townsend, camp director and secretary of men's activities of the "Y." One of the four had gone beneath the water, but was reached and pulled to safety by Townsend. The party left Pittsburgh Sunday. The drowning occurred yesterday.

PLAYED IN BAND

Bailey was well known as a musician in the Pittsburgh district, having played in the Langley High School band until his graduation last year, and in the Virginians dance band and the Ingram firemen's band. He was a student in the drafting course of the Carnegie Tech Night School and was employed by his uncle.

Y. M. C. A. officials said the party had been on a tour and had camped on Lake Erie, near Buffalo, the night before the accident. They had continued their tour to Lake Muskoka, where they had placed their tents, preparatory to the night's camping.

BOAT SINKS

The five boys had rowed to a refreshment stand and started back. Less than 150 feet from their camping site, the rowboat sank beneath them.

Instead of swimming ashore, they attempted to climb aboard the overturned skiff. Unable to do so, they were exhausted when others of the 30 campers became aware of their plight.

Townsend hurriedly organized a rescue party, but before it could reach the boat, Bailey and one of the others, whose name was not learned, had slipped beneath the lake waters.

Townsend, the camp supervisor, succeeded in locating the one youth, who was taken ashore and revived. Divers sought Bailey for 15 minutes before locating his body in eight feet of water. Resuscitation efforts failed.

GOOD SWIMMER

In the meantime, the other three, little worse for their experience, had been taken ashore.

Bailey, camp officials said, was an expert swimemr. He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Bailey, and two brothers and two sisters. He was the second oldest of the Bailey children. His body will be brought to Pittsburgh for funeral services.

Drowned

WINFIELD BAILEY, 21

Mr. Bailey, Pittsburgh youth drowned when a boat carrying him and four other Pittsburghers sprung a leak at the Y. M. C. A. camp on Picnic Island, Ontario.

BUCCOS TRAIL BROOKLYN

FIRST GAME.

Bklyn 20004 —
Pitts. 00020 —

Batteries—Shaute and Picinich; French and Phillips.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A battle of left handers took place at Forbes Field this afternoon, as the Pirates and Robins clashed in the first game of a double header. Larry French was opposed to Joe Shaute.

Glen Wright, former Pirate shortstop was not with the Robins when they landed in town today. Wright was sent to his home in Missouri suffering with a lame ankle. Gordon Slade was in the shortfield for the visitors.

The diamond was in perfect shape as the groundkeepers were able to get the cover down before the heavy storm of yesterday. Five thousand fans were out to see the first game.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

BROOKLYN—Frederick fanned. Gilbert walked. Herman doubled to right, Gilbert taking third. Bissonnette singled on the infield, scoring Gilbert, Herman taking third. O'Doul flied to Comorosky, scoring Herman. Finn forced Bissonnette. Thevenow to Groskloss. Tun runs. Two hits.

PITTSBURGH—Finn threw out L. Waner. Grantham walked. Comorosky grounded into a double play, Slade to Finn to Bissonnette.

SECOND INNING

BROOKLYN—Traynor threw out Slade. Thevenow threw out Picinich. Shaute fanned.

PITTSBURGH—Traynor flied to Finn. P. Waner went out, Bissonnette to Shaute. Groskloss fanned.

THIRD INNING

BROOKLYN — Frederick lined to P. Waner. Gilbert flied to L. Waner. Groskloss threw out Herman.

PITTSBURGH—Phillips singled to center. Thevenow fanned. French grounded into a double

Drys Find Aquarium In Raided Brewery

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—What was described by dry agents as one of the biggest breweries seized since prohibition was closed today with four men under arrest. The plant, occupied by a cereal company, was raided by 25 agents, who seized 30,000 gallons of high-test beer. The agents were somewhat mystified by finding an aquarium with several hundred fish in it in the cellar of the brewery.

BOY DRIVER OF DEATH CAR HELD

'HOOVER PLAN' BRITAIN'S —STIMSON

Announcement Stirs London; Parley 'Making Progress,' May End by Tomorrow

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, July 22.—Meeting the American newspaper correspondents here today to report "real progress achieved" at the seven-power conference, Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, dropped a bombshell into the midst of the correspondents with the announcement that the so-called "Hoover plan" for German relief was really American and British in conception.

The "four point" plan, the American Secretary of State said, actually was presented by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, and had been discussed in Paris previous to its issuance in Washington by President Hoover.

INITIATED BY MACDONALD

Stimson declared:

"Confusion regarding the 'American' plan yesterday was largely a matter of definition. I had no new proposal. I merely supported the same proposal I had presented at Paris, namely, a proposal for stabilization of existing credits.

"It was not strictly an 'American plan' because the American and English proposals coincide.

"The plan actually was initiated and brought before the conference by Premier MacDonald. I supported it, but even that is saying too much because there was no formal presentation of any cohesive plan."

MAY END TOMORROW

Speaking of the progress of the parley, Secretary Stimson said:

"Very real progress was achieved by the conference today and we are very hopeful that we will be able to finish tomorrow.

"The minds of the conferees are uniting on the suggestion of possible aid for Germany, and all acrimonious issues were absent."

He then dropped his bombshell-statement that the American four-point plan of relief was actually American and British in conception, and that it had first been advanced by Premier MacDonald.

ANNOUNCED BY HOOVER

The plan was announced from Washington by President Hoover yesterday, in the face of per-

SISTERS SEEK PAY FOR FRAUD EXPOSURE

Ask $10,000 Each From Davidson Estate; Point To Recovery of $410,000

The Misses M. Blanche and Martha K. Hibbert, sisters of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson, today asked Common Pleas Court to award them $10,000 each for services to the estate of Frederick Davidson, Pittsburgh steel millionaire and deceased husband of their sister.

These services, their petition averred, included:

Discovery of irregularities in the administration of the estate by Attorneys Henry G. Wasson and George H. Calvert. This resulted in the refunding of $410,000 to the estate by the attorneys.

Disbarment proceedings were started against both attorneys and carried to conclusion in Wasson's case.

WHISKY STOLEN

Discovery that a chauffeur in Mrs. Davidson's employ had been stealing rare old whisky from the family's pre-war stock and selling it at bootleg prices;

Discovery that Attorney Wasson's son had been kept in Mrs. Davidson's home, at her expense, during a long convalesence;

Discovery that a housekeeper had been entertaining "lavishly and frequently" with food and wine belonging to Mrs. Davidson;

Discovery that another employe of the estate purchased 100 hens for the estate and diverted the income from the sale of their eggs and chickens to himself.

FRAUDS CHARGED

Many other instances of irregularities which they found and had corrected in administration of the estate and in its routine affairs, were listed.

The sisters' claims revealed that Mrs. Davidson, adjudged mentally incompetent at the time Wasson and Calvert were named as an administration committee, is 59 years old and has an income of $135,000 annually. Her nearest relative is their mother, Mrs. Catherine Hibbert.

After Attorney Earl F. Reed, representing the estate, had argued against the petition, holding that there is no law under which a relative can be rewarded for such services, Judge James H. Gray and Sylvester J. Snee took the case under advisement.

FOUR IN SEAT AS AUTO UPSETS

Manslaughter Charged in Burning of Peabody High School Graduate July 11

After hearing testimony that four persons were riding on the front seat of a sport roadster when Harold A. Heron, 20, of 5156 Columbo street, was burned to death in the auto on the night of July 11, a coroner's jury today held Robert Shearn, Jr., 20, of 206 South Euclid avenue, driver, on a charge of manslaughter.

It was testified that Heron, son of Fireman George A. Heron, of No. 6 Engine Company, was wedged in the rumble seat and could not be extricated until fatally burned. The auto had struck a pole in Frankstown road, near McCutcheon lane.

Miss Ida Brown, of Murrayhill avenue, who occupied the rumble seat with Heron, escaped serious injury.

Shearn and Miss Elizabeth Cain, of 963 Wellesley road were taken to Columbia Hospital. Miss Cain's sister, Helen, 18, and James Riley, 17, of 223 Carson street, other occupants of the car, were slightly injured.

The machine was owned by Robert Shearn, father of the boy held today. Heron was a Peabody High School graduate.

Steel Merger Judge Faces Disbarment

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 22.—(AP.)—Attorney J. E. Bennett, president of the Mahoning County (Youngstown) Bar Association today filed disbarment proceedings against Common Pleas Judge David G. Jenkins, who issued the injunction in the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and another judge and a Youngstown attorney.

Beatification Urged For Mother Seton

ROME, July 22.—(AP.)—Bearing a petition with 150,000 signatures asking for beatification of Mother Elizabeth Seton, founder of the Sisters of Charity, a group of 50 American priests and nuns arrived in Rome today to see Pope Pius tomorrow.

If Mother Seton is beatified and later canonized, she will be the first American citizen made a saint.

Cardinal Opposed As Estate Ruler

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 22.—(AP.)—Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan and James P. O'Sullivan, brothers of the late Humphrey O'Sullivan, millionaire rubber heel manufacturer, today petitioned for removal of William Cardinal O'Connell as administrator of their brother's estate, which is valued at from $1,000,00 to $6,000,000.

American Bridge Co. Headquarters Here

The president's office of the American Bridge Company, filled yesterday by the election of L. A. Paddock, of 2087 Beechwood boulevard, will be in Pittsburgh, it was announced today. Paddock, who succeeded Joshua A. Hatfield, deceased, has decided to retain his office here and direct the affairs of the company from Pittsburgh.

PINCHOT MEETS JOB SURVEYORS

HARRISBURG, July 22.—Returning to his office today from a fishing trip off Block Island, Gov. Pinchot announced a conference to be held late this afternoon to assist in unemployment improvement.

The conference will mark the first meeting of a special committee to survey unemployment and the condition of the unemployed. Purpose of the survey is to prepare for the possibility of an unemployment problem during next winter. The new committee will supplement the Pinchot committee on unemployment, named by the Governor last year during his campaign.

Pittsburgh members of the new committee are Horace Forbes Baker and Mrs. Helen Glenn Tyson.

Mrs. Tyson, who lives at 4247 Bryn Mawr road, is secretary of the Birth Control League of Allegheny County. Her husband, Dr. Francis D. Tyson, is professor of economics at the University of Pittsburgh.

Horace F. Baker, a leader in welfare activities, lives at 1008 Beaver road, Glen Osborne. He is a member of the firm of Baker & Watts, attorneys at law, with offices in the Union Trust Building.

Coolidge, Sargent Hook Four Trout

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 22.—(AP.)—Calvin Coolidge and John Garibaldi Sargent, attorney general during the latter part of the Coolidge administration, today lured four square-tailed trout from Lake Wapanacki.

Somebody's Wrong About Mayor And Boils

Somebody is wrong about boils, as they pertain to Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Sometime ago physicians succeeded in relieving the Mayor of a series of boils and carbuncles in St. Francis Hospital.

Yesterday Public Safety Director James M. Clark told delegates to the Pennsylvania Police Chiefs' Association that the Mayor could not extend the usual welcome because of a new attack.

Today at the Mayor's office, Kline's secretary, Frank Swaney, explained that the Mayor is not suffering from a new set of boils.

The Mayor, although in his office, was not offered as "Exhibit A".

U. S. Girls Brighter, Says Hergesheimer

Two Americans Die Climbing Glacier

BERLIN, July 22.—(INS.)—Henry Smith, 22, and Leo Taller, 20, both of New York, were killed today when they fell into a crevasse while climbing a glacier near the Austro-Italian border.

SON OF AIMEE WED AT PARTY

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—(AP.)—Rolf McPherson, son of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and his bride, the former Lorna Dee Smith, of Alva, Okla., were honeymooning today.

They were married by Mrs. McPherson before an audience of 5,500 last night at Angelus Temple, headquarters of the "Four-Square Gospel" Church.

A daughter of the evangelist, Roberta Semple Smyth, and her newly-acquired husband, William B. Smyth, former ship's purser, who were to have been bridesmaid and best man, were withdrawn from the wedding party list.

A $250,000 breach of promise suit was on file here today against Guy Edward Hudson, making the third legal action involving him since he went through a marriage ceremony recently with Mrs. Minnie A. Kennedy, mother of Aimee.

The case was filed yesterday by Mrs. Ethel Lee Parker Harbert.

Extra Assessors to List McKeesport Voters

An agreement was reached in Common Pleas Court today in the suit of William F. Sullivan, Jr., of 1608 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, whereby subordinate assessors will sit in McKeesport to enroll citizens whose names may have been omitted. Heretofore persons omitted were required to go to the Courthouse to be assessed.

As soon as the agreement was reached assessors were ordered to open an office in the Peoples City Bank Building in McKeesport. The office will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. until the end of the month.

George J. Schad, chairman of the County Tax Board, said an effort would probably be made to send assessors to any district in which any considerable number of residents had failed to be assessed.

Sullivan, through Solicitor Harry Jones, of McKeesport, had filed suit for a writ of peremptory mandamus on the County Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes to compel the board to place his name on the list.

Sullivan was not assessed in the house-to-house canvass, and also failed of enrollment July 14 and 15, when assessors sat at the polling places in McKeesport.

County Solicitor M. B. Lesher told Judge James H. Gray that the tax board would assign assessors to McKeesport to take care of any citizens who had not been entered on the assessment books.

Judge Jails Man Who Hit Woman Cigaret Smoker

INDIANAPOLIS, July 22.—(INS.)—The right of a woman to smoke a cigaret on the street was upheld by Judge Wilbur Royse here today.

Judge Royse imposed a 10-day jail sentence and a $50 fine upon C. W. Hardwick, 50, an insurance salesman, who vented his feelings against smoking by women by flipping a cigaret from the mouth of Mrs. Marjorie Palecco and then slapping her three times.

George Palecco, her husband, had just given her a cigaret and she was climbing into an automobile when the incident occurred.

The husband jumped out of the car and led Hardwick to a traffic policeman nearby, who arrested Hardwick on a charge of assault and battery.

Judge Royse scored Hardwick and commended the husband who, he said, displayed more restraint than the court would have done.

Turning to Hardwick, Judge Royse said:

"Keep your nose out of other people's business in the future. Such rascals as you contribute to the ruin of America."

STRIKE LEADER CONFESSES PLOT TO SHOOT MINERS

75 MEN JAILED AFTER SHOTS MENACE 50

61 Captured Marching Near Scene of Sniping; Shells Found in Gun Hideout

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

WELLSBURG, W. Va., July 22.—Seventy-five striking miners under arrest here in connection with disorders when a group of 50 miners were fired upon, were being questioned today by Brooke County Prosecutor James Wilkins. They are tentatively charged with violating the Redman conspiracy act, and face a sentence of from 2 to 10 years' imprisonment upon conviction.

Sixty-one of the suspects were rounded up by seven Brooke County deputies as they marched along the McKinleyville road, near the scene of the disorder in which William Thompson, a Negro miner, was shot. They were en route to Steubenville to participate in a demonstration.

VIOLENCE DECIDED ON

According to a signed statement of Mike Mauer, president of Local No. 41, National Miners Union, members of the union at a meeting on Monday, the day before the shooting, decided to prevent strike breakers from entering the McKinleyville mine of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Coal Company, even if they had to use firearms. The statement was obtained by Sheriff Irvin Charnock.

The prisoners were held under heavy guard in the Brooke County court room, as there was not sufficient room in the jail. It will be in this court that they will be arraigned if charges are preferred. Fourteen empty shells were found on a hillside overlooking the McKinleyville road by deputies.

Mauer named Alex Furbee, chaplain and spiritual advisor of the McKinleyville mine colony, as one of the leaders in the movement to organize the National Miners Union here. National Miners Union literature was found in Furbee's home following his arrest.

The situation generally was quiet this morning. The most active demonstration took place on the city line between Wheeling and Warwood, at the Warwood mine of the Wheeling Coal Company. Pickets who lined the highway started booing carloads of miners passing, but ceased upon the warning of Capt. J. R. Brockus, of the West Virginia state police.

ELM GROVE QUIET

On Little Wheeling Creek, at Elm Grove mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, the situation was quiet. The strike in this mine is controlled by the United Mine Workers of America.

O. D. Pryor and Jack Roberts, mine guards, the latter said to be a former coal and iron policeman of Pittsburgh, were being held in $10,000 bond each today on charges in connection with the serious wounding of Ernest Kalkidonia and two other strikers a few days ago. It was charged that Pryor and Roberts fired into a group of miners.

...king Miner Held ...akmont Clash

Frank Slemok, a striking miner of Harmarville, arrested during a disorder at the Oakmont-Hulton Bridge last night, will face Burgess J. M. Bossert, of Oakmont, tonight.

Slemok was arrested by Deputy George Furner and two other aides at the Oakmont end of the bridge. A crowd gathered rapidly.

Burgess Bossert said today that only a small portion of the crowd of 100 or more had made threats against the deputies. The rest, he said, were disinterested spectators.

Wounded Boy Tells Of 'Ride' Shooting

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—(INS.)—John Flynn, 19, lay in a critical condition in a hospital today while police investigated his story that he had been kidnaped and shot by five men.

Although he had been arrested 26 times, Flynn has never been convicted of any charge, police said.

Hitch-Hiking Couple Held in Shooting

KANSAS CITY, July 22.—(AP.)—Martha Davis, 17, of Virden, Ill., and Joseph Greco, Chicago, hitch-hikers, were under arrest here today on a charge of shooting and wounding Rudolph Petereck, Topeka salesman. Police said they confessed.

MINERS' PEACE URGED BY DAVIS

SCRANTON, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—United States Senator James J. Davis, who fled with district officers of the miners' union and others from the convention hall yesterday when a riot started and police hurled tear gas bombs, left here this morning for Philadelphia. Senator Davis stated that he suffered no ill effects from the gas, except that his eyes burned a little.

Late last night Senator Davis summoned Thomas Maloney, insurgent leader, to his hotel room and discussed with him the day's happenings. Senator Davis suggested that Maloney, as leader of the forces opposed to the administration of John Boylan, president of District No. 1, use his influence to prevent outbreaks such as have broken up the convention in the last two days.

As today's session of the convention opened, extra policemen went on duty at the hall.

GRAF TESTED FOR POLAR TRIP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 22.—(AP.)—Forty-six men, who will go into the Arctic on the Graf Zeppelin's cruise starting Friday, were in the big ship today during a three-hour test flight over Lake Constance.

They wore the heavy clothing they will need in the North and the scientists, who are participating, rehearsed the important roles they will play, releasing automatic registration balloons which rise to great heights and contact with a radio station specially built on an Alpine peak near Bregenz.

DEMANDS U. S. SEIZE MINES

The federal government must promptly take over the bituminous and anthracite coal mines "to prevent bloody warfare and to end criminal starvation of children," Benjamin C. March, of Washington, secretary of the People's Lobby, declared before the Henry George Club meeting today in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Mr. March outlined the program of the organization, which is headed by Prof. John Dewey, formerly of Columbia University, and said that President Hoover must call a special session of Congress to appropriate $3,500,000,000 for public works, unemployment relief and unemployment insurance.

The money, according to Marsh, would be used as follows:

$3,000,000 for public works and extension of credit for municipal housing programs.

$250,000,000 to match like amounts appropriated by states for unemployment relief.

ANALYZE BEER IN DEATH AT ROADHOUSE

Ten Arrested in Quiz as U. S. Agents Seek Cause Of Versailles Fatality

Government chemists today were analyzing samples of 67 cases of beer, which dry agents said was seized as it was being trucked from the Sunny Stop Inn, a roadhouse in State road, Versailles Township, to determine if it contained ingredients which might have caused the death of James Walsh, 41, early yesterday.

Walsh, who lived at 609 Market street, McKeesport, was found dead in a bedroom of the inn shortly after an all-night party, which later resulted in 10 arrests, had ended. A morgue report said he had died from acute alcoholism.

MAN FOUND DEAD

Some of the highlights of the roadhouse party were:

Walsh was found dead soon after its conclusion. William Strachan, proprietor of the place, denied the dead man had been at the party.

A former Pittsburgh policeman was severely beaten, he says, when other participants in the party suddenly got the idea he was a prohibition agent.

Two automobiles, leaving the party, collided and injured three men, one of them the ex-policeman.

The 67 cases of beer, which dry agents and state police said had just been removed from the inn, were seized on a truck, driven by two of Strachan's neighbors in Westmoreland County.

In addition to Strachan, those under arrest were:

PRISONERS LISTED

Others under arrest are:

Edward Quinn, 34, of 2320 Murray avenue, former policeman, and John Carlson, 50, of 1321 Fawcett street extension, McKeesport, both in the McKeesport Hospital; Steve Vukelec, David Gray, Samuel Pollock, William Andre, Albert Lang and Roy Jackson, all of McKeesport, and Luther and Russell Meyers, brothers, who manned their beer-laden truck into Westmoreland County, state police said.

The Meyers brothers told the state police and prohibition agents that they were awakened at 6:30 Tuesday morning and asked to move the beer from Strachan's place, which is next door to their home.

Strachan, they said, told them a man had died in the roadhouse and he wanted the beer removed before police started their investigation.

DELAY GRANTED IN RATE PLEA

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has suspended hearings on the railroads' application for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates to permit the opposition to prepare its case.

The action was taken late yesterday after attorneys had argued for hours on whether the hearings should be continued without interruption until August 31.

No date was set for resumption of the hearings. However, Commissioner Meyer, presiding, announced the commission would consider a motion of the railroads to resume testimony before August 31.

GUARD TO FIGHT OFF 'INVADERS'

CAMP KEMP, MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 22.—(INS.)—"Active warfare" was the fare of Pennsylvania National Guardsmen here today as the 28th Division prepared to worst a mythical invading force advancing upon Lebanon and occupying the surrounding area.

Under command of Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., divisional leader, all arms of the service came into play to put into practice the theories of art the guardsmen have been absorbing during their training period.

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., July 22.—(INS.)—Three officers of the 103d Observation Squadron of the Pennsylvania National Guard Air Corps unit today opened an investigation into cause of a plane crash in which Lieut. Frank A. Johnson, 43, of Upper Darby and Sergt. Paul W. Dernoeden, 23, of Philadelphia, were killed last night when their airplane struck a tree, crashed and burst into flames just outside the Army air depot here.

2 Hurt as Trolley, Milk Truck Collide

Joseph Kagel, 25, of 1702 Irwin avenue, driver of a milk truck, and Stanley Griner, 17, of 1812 Murray street, South Braddock, his helper, were slightly injured this morning when their machine and a Carrick street car collided head-on in Brownsville road, directly in front of the Mt. Oliver Municipal Building.

Trial of Diamond Witness Delayed

TROY, N. Y., July 22.—(AP.)—Dr. Joseph D'Urglo, of Brooklyn, was arraigned today on a charge of perjury growing out of the alibi testimony of Jack Diamond's trial here last week. He entered a plea of not guilty and the case was adjourned until Friday.

Weather Conditions.

Relatively high pressure covers the Gulf states, while low pressure areas stink from New England westward to Alberta. The low that produced the rainfall over the eastern half of the country for the past several days is now in the Far Northeast. Skies are clearing over the Ohio Valley states and eastward to the coast. Showers were general east of the Mississippi yesterday and last night, but over the West there was no rain. The weather is moderately cool over the eastern half of the country, while in the Rocky Mountain states high temperatures occurred again yesterday. The highest reported in the North was 104 degrees, at Havre, Mont., and at Pocatello, Ida. Indications are for a gradual rise in temperature eastward.

PFARR OFFERS $500 REWARD IN BLASTS

Fire Marshal Joined by State Official in Inquiry Into Two Bombings Here

County Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr today offered a $500 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the persons responsible for two recent bombings.

One blast damaged the home of Thomas J. Conley, reform candidate for justice of the peace in McKees Rocks. The other wrecked the dwelling of Frank Passone, barbeque stand owner, of East McKeesport.

CONLEY QUIZZED

Pfarr, with Deputy C. A. Lippert and Deputy State Fire Marshal E. W. Faber today questioned Conley, but he was unable to throw any light on the bombing of his place, Pfarr said.

Others quizzed were Louis Lanza, owned of a dynamited building at 821 Chartiers avenue, his wife and Thomas Saia, tenant. Damage to the Lanza building was placed at $10,000.

Pfarr and his aids went to Braddock today to investigate the alleged incendiary fire at the home of Simon Lefkowitz, 400 Talbot avenue. Lefkowitz, his wife and a boarder, Andy Peplessky, await a court hearing on charges of arson and conspiracy.

FUNDS LACKING

A downtown businessman has offered to contribute $1,000 toward maintenance of Pfarr's organization, he announced today. Recently he says he has had no automobile, and has had to investigate fires by trolley or drive-yourself car. The county appropriation is consumed in paying deputies and office rent, he asserted.

PLAN BRITAIN'S, STIMSON SAYS

sistent denials by Secretary Stimson that any "American plan" was under consideration by the conference, and the terms of the Washington announcement were cabled to London by news agencies and newspaper correspondents.

In explanation of the apparent differences existing between Washington views and those expressed by Stimson as head of the American delegation here, Secretary Stimson said:

"President Hoover published his standpoint without reference to what was happening at the conference."

'LIKE BATH TUB'

Likening the credit situation in Germany to a bath tub, Secretary Stimson said:

"The stopper has been out and the water has been running out rapidly. It is necessary first to put the plug back in the hole. Then it is necessary to examine what water is left and see if it is sufficient for the purpose at hand. If it is, well and good, but if it is not it may be necessary to put more water in it."

The "very real progress at the morning session of the conference consisted of practically unanimous agreement for the prolongation of the $100,000,000 credit advanced to the Reichsbank a few weeks ago, and, secondly, an agreement in principle to prevent further credit withdrawals from Germany.

The conference also considered a new short-term credit to Germany, making possible the discounting of German trade bills in foreign countries, with the backing of the gold discount bank of Berlin, to which 1,000 leading German industrial firms recently pledged their support to the extent of 500,000,000 marks.

MELLON GESTICULATES

Discussions at today's conference grew intense. At one time during a rapid exchange of repartee, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, usually a very quiet speaker, was said to have gesticulated vigorously to emphasize a point.

When Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, suggested to Premier Laval that, since France had not invested much money in Germany, she should take new credits proportionate to the amounts held by Britain and the United States, Laval said:

"I do not want to promise what I can not fulfill. The French government does not control the Bank of France and can not force it to invest in Germany."

Shaw, Lady Astor Trapped In Stalled Elevator

MOSCOW, July 22.—(AP.)—The first Russian to be overcome by the fame of George Bernard Shaw who is here seeing Moscow under the Soviet was an elevator operator in his hotel. Flustered by his distinguished passenger, the operator made a bad landing five feet below the ground floor, and the car jammed.

For five minutes G. B. S. fumed. So did Lady Astor, his fellow passenger. Finally they were rescued by a couple of American newspapermen, who pulled them to freedom through a narrow aperture.

With the world-famed writer and the lady parliamentarian were two of Russia's newly freed—a servant girl and a Mongolian muzhik.

Posers for Parents Given In Child Health Quiz

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—Posers for parents are propounded in a series of 15 leaflets published by the White House Child Conference on child health and protection.

The leaflets constitute a sort of correspondence course in how to rear children, with no papers to hand in.

Some samples of the questions are:

"Why is it better for boys and girls to have many social contacts with one another in their teens, even at the expense of some 'petting'?"

"Would you consider the state of emotional affairs healthy in a family in which a 17-year-old boy or girl always asks the mother if he or she can go out for the evening?

"Discuss the question of possible arousal of negativism, and subsequent stubborn refusal to talk, in a young child whose parents attempt to make it repeat nursury rhymes.

"How do you determine which movies your children shall see?

"What kinds of adventure do you think a two-year-old should have? A seven-year-old? A 13-year-old.?

"What possibilities has your child to feel the exhilaration of earning money of his or her own?"

MAYOR KLINE SOUGHT AS MEDIATOR IN TAXICAB STRIKE

LABOR COUNCIL TO PROPOSE PEACE MOVE

Head of Parmelee Company Here, Silent on Walkout; Firm Accused by Leader

A third attempt was to be made today by a committee of the Central Labor Union to see Mayor Kline in the interest of settling the taxicab strike.

Members of the committee, headed by P. T. Fagan, gathered in the office of P. J. McGrath, secretary of the union, preparatory to visiting the mayor's office, to ask his services as meditator in settling differences between the drivers and the Parmelee company.

McGrath said:

"The committee will make another effort to see the Mayor. They have tried twice previously, but were unsuccessful in getting an audience."

PARMELEE HEAD HERE

E. H. Miller, of New York, president of the Parmelee Company, was in Pittsburgh for several hours today, but left without making a statement on the strike situation.

Miller conferred with Paul L. Houston, head of the Green and Yellow Taxicab companies, and Walter S. Laird, president of the Parmelee Motor Fuel Company. Houston said the visit was personal.

Explaining the efforts of the Central Labor Union committee to meet with Houston, P. J. McGrath, secretary, accused the Parmelee Company of unfairness to the drivers.

CHARGE UNFAIRNESS

Adding that officers learned through an investigation, the reasons why the taxicab drivers were forced to go on strike, the reasons are set forth as follows:

"Gross discrimination against members of the Taxicab Union by the Parmelee Company.

"Discharge of union drivers for slight damage to cars, whether caused by drivers, a customer or another automobile.

"Discharge of union drivers for slight or even 'trumped-up' reasons and replacing these with non-union drivers, which was a direct violation of the terms upon which the 1930 strike was terminated.

ASK FAIR PAY

"A rate of pay that was not anywhere near the recognized rate for workingmen of the Pittsburgh district.

"A determined, visable effort on the part of the Parmelee Company to deny the right of their taxicab drivers to organize, and a like visable effort on the part of the company to disrupt and ruin what organization their drivers had."

A strikers "pep" meeting has been called for tonight in Moose Temple, Penn avenue. Union leaders will begin making addresses at 7:30 o'clock.

THEIR MOTHER WIRED FOR 'HELP!'

Pittsburgh Tots Left Alone, Woman Says She Was Kidnaped

JOE, 4, AND DAN (RIGHT), 5, PLAYING AT COWBOY AND INDIAN IN THEIR HOME TODAY

The children of Mike Guglilmucci, 43, 1808 Manhattan street, North Side, whose mother, Mrs. Theresa Guglilmucci, 22, is held as a material witness in Baltimore since police "rescued" her from armed Samuel Buzzelli, whom she says forced her to leave home four weeks ago at gun's point. She says she escaped, wired Pittsburgh relatives, who told Baltimore police.

BLAST VICTIMS RECOVERING

Six persons, two of them girls, injured in an explosion in Open Hearth Mill No. 3, of the Homestead plant of the Carnegie Steel Company late yesterday, were recovering today.

The explosion, caused when a large piece of slag was dropped into a wet gondola car, was heard over the entire district. Windows four blocks away were shattered by the concussion of the blast.

The injured were Andrew Sovich, 38, of 442 Cherry way, Homestead, burned about the face and body and sent to West Penn Hospital; Peter Seddon, 25, of 131 Seventh avenue, Homestead, slight burns, and John Kazimer, 27, of 894 High street, Munhall, burned about the hands, all workmen; Mary Davis, 16, of 405 Amity street, Homestead, cut and shocked when the window of the J. & L. restaurant in which she was employed, was shattered, and Dorothy Bartek, 10, of 551 Fourth avenue, cut by glass from a broken window as she was standing on the street.

Mrs. Mike Biecko, 40, of 310 City Farm lane, near the plant entrance, was placed under the care of a physician when she was blown from her bed by the force of the blast.

MRS. GUGLILMUCCI, 22

MOTHER TELLS OF KIDNAPING

BALTIMORE, July 22.—Mrs. Theresa Guglilmucci, 22, mother of two children, 1808 Manhattan street, Pittsburgh, told a story in Central Police Court, today, of being abducted, held captive here and threatened with death by Samuel Buzzelli, Pittsburgh millworker.

Buzzelli, 35, denied her story. He said she had come with him voluntarily and had been free to return home whenever she wished. He was to be given a hearing late today before a United States commissioner, charged with violating the Mann act. The young wife was held as a material witness.

Mrs. Guglilmucci at the police hearing testified:

"Five weeks ago my sister was visiting me at my home. Buzzelli apparently was in love with her. The night she went home he went to the station with me to see her off.

"A week later he came to see me and told me I was going away with him. When I refused he drew a pistol and threatened to kill me. I was afraid and went with him. He brought me to Baltimore and we went to a place near Pimlico. Two weeks ago we moved to Lemington street.

"He kept me locked up all the time and was always threatening to shoot me. Sometimes he would beat me. Monday he let me go to the store and I sent a telegram to my mother asking for help. I never expected to see my babies again."

Detectives arrested the couple yesterday. They reported taking one loaded revolver from Buzzelli and finding another in a bureau drawer.

The woman's husband, Michael, at home today with his children, Daniel, 5, and Joseph, 4, said his wife left him and that a keg of wine disappeared at the same time. He said he did not know Buzzelli.

Parents of the woman said they were not alarmed at her reported abduction.

HUMES NAMED VOTE BOARD'S SPOKESMAN

Commissioner Points Out Power to Strike Fakers From Registration Lists

Registration Commissioner E. Lowry Humes has been appointed "public relations counsel" of the Board of Registration Commissioners.

At a meeting of the board held yesterday Humes was made the official spokesman of the board following the issuance of conflicting statements concerning the activities of the board from clerks and subordinate employes.

EASY TO REGISTER

After the meeting Humes said:

"This board is not making any investigations with the idea of sensationalizing its activities.

"We are laying the groundwork for determination as to the authenticity of residences which may be given by persons registering for the coming election. The only function of this board is to check residence addresses given by persons who register.

"If addresses given are vacant lots or other fictitious places then we can strike their names from the registration books.

"The books reported missing from this office were never turned over to it. They were stolen last November from the polling places.

"They are mere records of the registration and vote cast then. They would be valuable in expediting the check that we are making now but are not essential.

"The impression that some published reports give, that they have been taken since this board took office, is entirely erroneous."

MAKES STATEMENT

Humes said that the chief interest of the new board is to make it easy for citizens to be registered and to eliminate fraudulent registration.

The first day to register is September 3. Immediately after registration the investigators for the Board of Registration Commissioners, Humes said, will begin a careful check of all districts where there is suspicion of "padded" assessment lists.

INJURED ON HONEYMOON

Thrown From Horse, Seriously Hurt

IRENE DELROY . . . HONEYMOONING MRS. W. L. AUSTIN, JR.

Miss Delroy, Broadway musical comedy star, critically injured on her wedding trip with her wealthy, young bridegroom-realtor when her mount threw her on the outskirts of Quebec, Canada.

IRENE DELROY HURT IN FALL

MONTREAL, July 22.—(INS.)—Irene Delroy, New York actress and singer, was in a serious condition today as a result of a fall from a horse. She sustained a fractured skull and broken left hand when thrown from her mount at Murray Bay, Quebec resort of the Gulf of the St. Lawrence.

The actress was married to William L. Austin, Jr., wealthy Philadelphia business man last Thursday.

She was reported slightly improved today.

LEADERS SPLIT WITH VARE

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—(INS.)—Philadelphia's bitter mayoralty race changed somewhat overnight, definite lineups taking place and presaging the bitterest bout ever to mar the harmony of the local Republican organization.

Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, for years William S. Vare's closest ally, announced his support of George H. Biles, former director of Public Works, and mayoralty candidate of Charles B. Hall.

Vare maintained silence, but when Former Mayor J. Hampton Moore, independent leader, makes his expected announcement today that he will be a candidate, Vare is expected to come out promptly with his indorsement of Moore.

Biles and his supporters claim the support of 35 of the city's 48 wards, asserting Vare, who was once the virtual dictator of G. O. P. policies here, can now carry only 10 wards.

BRUFF ENTERS RACE AGAINST MACKRELL

Action Recalls 1909 Fight When Ex-Sheriff Defeated Register of Wills' Father

Petitions to place Judd Bruff's name in the Republican primary as a candidate for register of wills have been taken out from the County Bureau of Elections. The incumbent, Joseph N. Mackrell, is a candidate to succeed himself.

Bruff's entry recalled the campaign he waged in 1909 when he won the Republican nomination for sheriff over Arch Mackrell, the present register of wills' father. Bruff had been a railroad employe, practically unknown in politics and his campaign, featured by lithographs of him as a Spanish-American War veteran, attracted little notice until the last few days before the primary.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET

David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, has issued a call for a meeting of party workers at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The purpose is "to suggest candidates for city and county offices."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern evidently is awaiting some sign that will determine whether the county and city organizations will unite behind the candidacies of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and State Senator James J. Coyne. The Armstrong-Coyne ticket is believed to have been agreed upon before W. L. Mellon left Pittsburgh early this week for a vacation in Canada.

WALDSCHMIDT IN RACE

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt will become a candidate for Common Pleas Court judge. Petitions to have his name on the ballot at the September primary were placed in circulation today and Waldschmidt admitted he had given his consent for their circulation. He said:

"I am thinking seriously of becoming a candidate. That is all I care to say at this time."

Waldschmidt is said to be sure of the support of Mayor Charles H. Kline in the Republican primaries. The seven sitting judges are up for re-election.

MANSFIELD INDORSED

State Senator William D. Mansfield's candidacy for county commissioner has been indorsed by the Federated Trades Council of McKeesport, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, according to James A. Wilson, of Mifflin Township, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The Bureau of Elections has issued nominating petitions to these other candidates: John E. Loibl, Republican, City Council; C. C. Hamilton, Republican, county commissioner; James L. O'Toole, Democrat, county commissioner.

Americans to Aid Vivian and Child

PARIS, July 22.—(AP.)—The Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune says today that two American witnesses will swear to the papers required for the United States government to issue travel documents for the baby of Vivian Duncan, American actress.

Miss Duncan's baby was born a few months ago in Germany. Her husband, Nils Asther, is a Swedish subject and confusion has arisen concerning just what nation has the power to issue travel documents for the child.

Tokio Fliers Plan New Non-Stop Hop

SEATTLE, July 22.—(AP.)—Ready for a second try at a non-stop refueling flight from Seattle to Tokio, R. L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, the flying Texans, announced yesterday they hope to take off at 6:30 a. m., tomorrow in their plane, the Fort Worth.

The fliers spent the day checking over their ship, which has been equipped with a new motor giving it almost double the power with which the previous flight was attempted.

Finds Nail in Pie, Sues for $10,000

CHICAGO, July 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Agnes Germani might not have minded four and twenty blackbirds hidden in her pie, but she drew the line at nails. She swallowed a nail in a corner bakery pie three weeks ago and the resultant doctor's bills totaled $250, she stated in a damage suit for $10,000, started against the bakers and the retailers.

Gang Raids Deering Home, Seizes Whisky

EVANSTON, Ill., July 22.—(AP.)—A gang of robbers yesterday commandeered the home of Mrs. Charles Deering, whose late husband was chairman of the board of the International Harvester Company, and escaped with 20 cases of prewar whisky after holding captive four members of the household.

Hired Girl Quits For Beauty Contest

TRAVENSTHROP, England, July 22.—(AP.)—Mary Arblaster, 20, entered a beauty contest. She was a domestic in the household of Mrs. M. Kersham, who told her it was either quit the contest or her job. Mary is out of a job.

May, Stern Buys Bankrupt Concern

The United States District Court of Western Pennsylvania has just confirmed the sale by Robert C. Sproul, receiver in bankruptcy, of the stock and accounts of the Select Furniture Corporation to May, Stern & Co.

The Select originally operated stores in Buffalo, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, and opened its Pittsburgh branch in 1924. Some time later additional stores were opened in Greensburg, Tarentum and Washington, Pa. The receivership proceedings involve only the four stores in the Pittsburgh district.

Ruth Bank to Pay 7 Per Cent Dividend

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 22.—Authorization for the payment of a 7 per cent dividend, aggregating $200,000, by the Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania in Connellsville, of which L. F. Ruth, of Washington, was the head, was given today by the court.

Ruth was convicted of misapplication of $60,000 of the bank funds. His sentence is being held up pending action on a motion for a new trial.

McConnells Mill Urged as Park

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 22.—C. E. Zerby, district forester, in company with Thomas H. Liggett, of Pittsburgh, who is behind the move to make McConnells Mill, on the Slippery Rock Creek, a state park, made an inspection of the proposed state park site yesterday. The organization of a committee to further the state park idea is now being effected.

Shipstead Given Welcome at Oslo

OSLO, Norway, July 22.—(AP.)—Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, who arrived in Oslo yesterday for his first visit to his parents and his native land since he emigrated, is receiving a hearty welcome. An interview broadcast by radio, in which the Senator spoke in fluent Norwegian, drew much attention.

play, Gilbert to Finn to Bissonette. One hit.

FOURTH INNING

BROOKLYN — Bissonette flied to Comorosky. Traynor robbed O'Doul of a double by a marvelous assist. Finn flied to Groskloss. Groskloss and Thevenow collided on the play, but neither was hurt.

FIFTH INNING

BROOKLYN—Slade was safe on Thevenow's high throw. Picinich grounded to Traynor, but both runners were safe when Groskloss muffed Traynor's throw. Shaute tried to sacrifice, but forced Picinich, Traynor to Thevenow, Slade going to third. Frederick doubled off the right field wall, scoring Slade. Shaute taking third. Gilbert singled to center, scoring Shaute and Frederick and when L. Waner threw wide to the plate, Gilbert also scored. Herman flied to L. Waner. Bissonette flied to P. Waner. Four runs. Two hits. Three errors.

Lake Erie's 'Sea Serpent' Eighteen-Foot Snake

SANDUSKY, O., July 22.—(AP.)—A search by skeptical Sanduskians for a "sea serpent" in Lake Erie near here, ended last night when two Cincinnati cement salesmen announced they had captured an 18-foot snake while they were fishing in Sandusky Bay. The snake was held in captivity today by its finders, Frank Bagentose and Clifford Wilson.

Bagentose and Wilson said the snake came to the surface of the bay near their rowboat. Wilson hit it with an oar. Hauling it into their boat, they took it ashore and packed it in a box.

Harold L. Madison, curator of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, examined the snake and judged it a python. It was suggested it might have escaped from a zoo or circus. Also it was recalled that such a snake was reported to have escaped from an Erie Railroad express car a few miles south of here several months ago.

In the past few days several Sanduskians had reported seeing a "sea serpent" in the lake, but until the 18-foot snake was found, their friends believed they were joking, and today many persons continued to suspect someone was perpetrating a hoax.

There was no denying the snake, however.

Son to Referee When Parents Play Bridge

CHICAGO, July 22.—(AP.)—Russell Tovey, 22, now holds a permanent commission from the Grand Crossing Police Court as arbiter and keeper of the peace when his parents indulge in card games.

His father, Frank, was in court accused of tossing Mrs. Tovey down stairs incidental to a disagreement over cards. Mrs. Tovey also attended, in bandages.

Russell, as mediator, offered to stay home and referee whenever the folks wanted to play, so Judge John Lupe put it down on the books that way and the Toveys strolled home together.

Drys' Bullets Peril 1,000 On Church Picnic Boat

DETROIT, July 22.—(AP.)—An excursion steamer with 1,000 members of a church young people's society on board became the center of a brush between liquor runners and United States customs border patrolmen on the Detroit River last night, and one of the shots fired wounded an excursionist in the arm.

The fugitive speedboat and its crew of two escaped into Canadian waters, having dumped a part of its cargo.

The consensus of witnesses to the fast moving drama was that the shot which wounded Arthur Gajeski, 23, on the steamer Ste. Claire, probably ricocheted from the hull of the rum boat as it sped past the steamer. The Ste. Claire's rail was lined with merrymakers, who had deserted the dance floor to watch the chase.

First stories told by the passengers after they landed were that the rum boat had taken refuge from three pursuing boats alongside the steamer and that the crew of a border patrol boat had fired 40 shots at the two liquor runners, with the Ste. Claire in the line of fire.

Walter S. Petty, assistant United States collector of customs, after interviewing the patrolmen involved, said it had been a running fight between the rum runners and the patrolmen, started by the smugglers, and that the patrolmen had withheld their fire when the Ste. Claire and a yacht that was passing in the channel came in line.

BOMBAY RULER GUN TARGET

POONA, India, July 22.—(AP.)—Sir John E. B. Hotson, acting governor of Bombay, narrowly escaped death today when a bullet, fired by a student, hit his coat just above the heart and was stopped by a metal stud of his pocketbook.

A second shot went wide. The governor overpowered the youth, who was arrested. On him was found a second loaded revolver.

Sir John was unhurt and made light of his experience. The attack occurred while he was inspecting Ferguson College.

BRIDGE REPAIR FUNDS SOUGHT

Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert, of the city Department of Public Works, has asked Council to vote a $340,000 bond issue for repairs to the Panther Hollow and Pennsylvania Railroad bridges in Schenley Park.

Council will hold a special meeting next Thursday, President John S. Herron said, to take action. Approximately $140,000 is asked for repairs to both spans.

Reppert also asked more than $120,000 for sewer projects, including one in Montgomery avenue, Union street and Canal street, $50,000; Farragut street and Stanton avenue, $24,000, and Courtland avenue and Blair street, $30,000.

Other bridge repair costs are estimated at $70,000. For reconstruction of part of Hill road, Highland Park, Reppert asks $10,000.

Three Professors Take Part in Wedding

QUISSETT, Mass., July 22.—(AP.)—Three Princeton professors took principal parts in a wedding performed here yesterday. Prof. F. J. Mather gave his daughter, Margaret, in marriage to Associate Prof. Louis A. Turner, whose best man was Associate Prof. Henry B. Smyth.

RULING ON HALL BONDS ASSAILS OFFICIALS

Commissioners Ignore Law's Provisions, Hargest Says; 1929 Act Balks Defeat

The opinion of Judge William M. Hargest, of Dauphin County, on the town hall suit brought by former Mayor William A. Magee in behalf of John H. Palmer, a taxpayer, to block the issuance of the bonds, while dismissing the suit severely criticizes County Commissioners for failure to comply strictly with the law.

The opinion reads in part:

"The proceedings before us show a failure to comply strictly with the provisions of the statutes such as one would hardly expect in a great county providing for an increase in indebtedness running into millions of dollars.

"The law requires the certificate of election to be entered upon the books of the County Commissioners. It also requires the election officers to return a certified copy of the ordinance and adverisement. These things were not done. . . . There were other matters in which the statutes were not complied with, and if it were not for the validating Act of May 21, 1929, we would feel bound to declare the proceedings invalid."

The validating Act, passed by the Legislature, placed large power in the popular decision of the voters regardless of the acts of public officials.

Magee, who is studying the opinion, declined to comment.

F. A. Hetherington, Iron Maker, Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, July 22.—(AP.)—Frederick A. Hetherington, 71, manufacturer, inventor and artist, died at his home here last night.

Until his retirement, four years ago, Mr. Hetherington was head of the Hetherington & Berner, Inc., structural iron firm. His most noted invention was a railway asphalt paving plant.

KERR DEFENDS PAY HOLDUP ON PAVING

Solicitor Denies Right Of Council to Approve Job Held to Be Faulty

Contending that if City Controller James P. Kerr has to sign the warrant for the paving of Fifteenth street, between Penn avenue and Pike, as a ministerial act, he is not a controller, but merely a clerk, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt today opposed the petition of Domenick Pavia for a mandamus. Pavia went to court to compel Controller Kerr to sign a warrant so he can collect $17,800 for the work, payment for which was held up when it was alleged the concrete work did not comply with specifications. Judge Gray will render a decision later.

Solicitor Waldschmidt contended Council had no right to pass a resolution accepting the job, and that the controller had the right to refuse payment, if after investigation he found that the job didn't meet specifications.

Attorney John E. Laughlin, for Pavia, claimed Kerr was taking an arbitrary and technical stand in refusing to sign the warrant after the city had accepted the job.

Public Work Director Edward G. Lang explained the engineers had advised him that the concrete had been properly put in, but that straw and slag had upset the eight-inch uniformity required in some instances. He said the engineers and Pavia and Laughlin all agreed the work was what had been contracted for, and would give the service to the city. He said the city was accepting and using the street.

Controller Kerr told the court that if a city accepts a street not properly constructed, he believes the property owners could refuse to pay benefits.

Altmayer to Observe Birthday With Treat

Thirty-one thousand persons in 89 Pittsburgh institutions will join Leo G. Altmayer in the celebration of his birthday next Wednesday. It will be his twelfth annual watermellon treat to the city's unfortunate.

The principal party at which leaders in business, political and social life will pay tribute to Altmeyer, will be held at Leech Farm, on Washington boulevard. Arrangements are being made to entertain 15,000 at Leech Farm.

8 Whooping Cough Victims Hold Party

BALTIMORE, July 22.—(AP.)—A whooping cough party at which public health regulations took precedence over the book of etiquet was held yesterday on an estate in suburban Baltimore. The hosts were two sisters, five and eight years old, and their guests were six companions. All eight are recovering from the disease but are in quarantine. Paper dishes used at the party were burned immediately after they had been used. The affair was described as one of the most exclusive children's parties in Maryland in a long time.

GIRL RESUMES STRIKE ROLE

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 22.—(AP.)—Freed of allegations on which her deportation was sought, Anna Burlak, girl strike leader, returned to the textile strike area from Boston last night and addressed a crowd of 1,500 strikers. At Boston she proved to the satisfaction of immigration authorities that she was an American citizen.

A group of 150 cheering supporters greeted her here and accompanied her to Providence, where she addressed strikers from the Welbosset Mills in Olneyville, who had decided to return to work. She called upon them to reverse their vote.

Upon her return from Providence the girl called upon 1,500 strikers who heard her here to resume their fight.

GIRL BELIEVED DEAD KIDNAPED

GRAYLING, Mich., July 22.—(INS.)—A 15-year-old Toledo cabaret dancer, believed murdered, today "had returned from the grave" to testify against her stepfather, Irving Heupl, on kidnaping charges. The stepfather was sentenced to serve from 40 to 50 years in the Marquette Penitentiary.

When the stepdaughter, Laurine Christenson, disappeared a year ago, she was believed to have been murdered. A body found near the Manistee River last fall was identified as the body of the girl.

Heupl disappeared shortly after Laurine vanished and authorities started a search for him on suspicion of murder. He was captured two weeks ago and confessed kidnaping the girl and placing her in the cabaret.

HURT IN FALLS, 2 ASK $30,000

Seeking $10,000 damages from the Borough of Verona for injuries in a sidewalk fall, Anna Roth, of Verona, filed suit in Common Pleas Court. She averred that while walking on East Railroad avenue July 22, 1930, she tripped in a hole and as the result of her fall her tongue is partially paralyzed and she has a disfiguring tumor on her face.

Claiming $20,000 damages for injuries in a fall alleged due to a broken step in her home, Kate Henegan, of 511 Cherry way, Braddock, filed suit against her landlord, Althea E. Lorch, in Common Pleas Court.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carnahan asked $30,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Carnahan in a traffic collision in their suit against Deere Brothers, bus operators, filed in Common Pleas Court. The suit alleged that the Carnahan automobile was struck by a bus of defendants May 23 last at the intersection of the Saltsburg and Monroeville roads.

Beer Truck Taken After Gun Battle

YORK, Pa., July 22.—(INS.)—One man was arrested and a truck containing 54 kegs of alleged beer was seized by police here following an exchange of shots with the driver of the truck who escaped.

The man held is Harry J. Douterick, 24, of Columbia. He was held in $1,000 bail on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

Injured by Bolt, Man to Recover

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 22.—Leasure Brown, 50, South Huntingdon Township farmer, is recovering from the effects of a lightning bolt which struck him as he was returning from the fields. Brown was struck in the back of the head and rendered unconscious.

Utility Smartly Interpreted

Pattern 2071

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Cottons are so popular this season that the utility frock made to wear at home is no longer merely serviceable; it closely resembles the cotton frocks which many of the smartest women wear all day long during the summer months. This model, from a practical point of view, has a faint relationship to the Hoover apron in the way its fronts lap over and the closing achieved by a sash passing through a slot, features that endear it to the busy, hurried housewife. But it also shows a relationship to the leading styles in cotton frocks in its flaring flounce, its contrasting diagonal collar and short sleeves.

Obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 36-inch material. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

$713,422 LOW BID ON BRIDGE

The American Bridge Company submitted a low bid of $713,422.50 on building the superstructure of South Tenth Street Bridge, according to a tabulation today by County Controller Robert G. Woodside. The next bid of $804,652.50 was presented by the Fort Pitt Bridge Company.

Other bids opened yesterday by County Commissioners were: Langdon Kashub, changes to heating and ventilating systems of a court room, $554; W. C. Hemmerle, electrical work necessary in those changes, $849.

The commissioners called for bids on six 10-ton gas rollers, costing about $5,000 each, for asphalt road resurfacing. They are to replace six rollers bought in 1922.

Professor Arrested As Drunken Driver

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—(INS.)—Arrested after a chase on charges of driving while intoxicated, Earl H. Detsch, 31, an instructor in English and coach of the debating team at Olney High School here, was held in $400 bail for court.

JUDGE REFUSES MAN DIVORCE

Discrediting testimony of a husband who complained his wife had nagged him, threatened suicide and had gone on a trip with another man, Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court refused a divorce asked by Austin Story, of River road, Neville Island, from Josephine B. Story, of Second street, Neville Island.

Story testified that before their separation January 25 his wife had accompanied a man she met in Philadelphia on a trip to Baltimore, after leaving for Farrell to visit a relative. Mrs. Story testified she went to Baltimore to visit the man's mother. She also declared her pleas for a reconciliation were refused. They were married May 12, 1928. Judge Gray said he was inclined to credit Mrs. Story's testimony instead of that of her husband.

GULF REFINING COMPANY

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

IF YOU'RE in the mood for a choice bit of irony, draw up your chair and get a load of this little yarn. I've written plenty of tales about tough breaks in my day, but this one just about tops the list. It's a story of a man who lost everything that was worth while in life—only because he tried to do the right thing.

Let's start with the day that Frank was released from prison after a three-year stretch. When he arrived in New York he found Mary waiting for him. That had been a long and weary wait, but she loved this man and she knew she was going to marry him. But first they had that very serious talk.

"I'll be doing something in no time at all," he told her enthusiastically. "I'll probably start in by running a little beer and alcohol. And then I—"

Mary shook her head vigorously.

"Frank," she asserted, "you're going to do nothing of the sort. You're going to get yourself a decent job and live as a decent man. I've waited for you. I love you and I want to be your wife.

"You've made a lot of promises to me and you haven't kept many of them. But this is one promise you've got to keep until the day you die.

"You've got to go straight, Frank. Otherwise both our lives will be wasted."

In the end the man gave her the promise she wanted.

Frank knew it was going to be a mighty tough job for an ex-convict to walk into a decent position. He tried several things, but got nowhere. After a month of idleness he finally hit upon a plan. If he could pass a civil service examination and get a city job, Mary and he could settle down in a little home of their own.

The one black mark against him was his record. He knew there would be no city position with that in the background, so he did the only thing possible under the circumstances. He made the application in the name of his brother.

The entire plan went through without a hitch. Several months later Frank passed his examination and went to work for the city under his brother's name. He and Mary were married.

Another year brought them their first child. Frank was the proudest man in America. And he often laughed at the past.

"Wasn't I the biggest fool in the world, sweetheart?" he would cry. "Battling cops all the time and never knowing what it meant to have a peaceful moment?

"I owe everything to you, Mary. When I look back and see what a fool I was, I begin to feel sick. You taught me my lesson."

Just about two years later, on Mary's birthday, Frank planned a big surprise. He had been saving quietly for some months in order to get her a small ring. Now the day had rolled around and Frank stepped into a jewelry store to make the purchase.

While he was examining several rings, the store was held up. The crooks backed Frank and the owner into a corner, scooped up all the stuff they could handle and vanished. And before Frank could get away the detectives were on the scene.

One of the officers was taking Frank's name when he suddenly wrinkled his brow.

"I've seen you some place," he asserted. "Didn't I have you in some kind of a case a couple of years ago?"

"No," he replied. "You're probably thinking of my brother. He was the bad boy in our family."

The detective snapped his fingers.

"Yeah?" he said. "Well, maybe you're going to tell me that I'm a little crazy. I know you."

"You were in on this holdup. You might as well come clean. Who were the other guys?"

Frank protested his innocence. You can readily imagine what a chance he had. They took him to police headquarters.

For hours they kept grilling him. Who were the crooks? The fingerprints had fixed his identity. Why had he lied?

In the end, Frank broke down.

"My God, fellows," he cried, "give me a fighting chance, won't you? I'm married now. I've got the swellest wife a man could have and the grandest little baby in the world. I swear on both their lives that I haven't done a wrong thing since I stepped out of prison.

"I had to use my brother's name in order to make a living. You know I wouldn't have had a chance otherwise.

"Give me a break, fellows. For the sake of my wife and kid, let me go on living as I was before. Don't take my job away from me because I was unlucky enough to be in that store today. I've tried so hard to be decent and straight."

A detective slapped him right across the mouth.

"You're a liar," he growled. "You're the same bum you always were. Working for the city, are you? Well, you won't be there long. Once a crook, always a crook." . . .

They couldn't implicate Frank in the jewel robbery and they never did find the actual crooks. But they wanted a conviction—and Frank was easy meat. He was placed on trial for perjury; for using his brother's name to obtain his position.

Frank, of course, is back in Sing Sing again. And not because he tried to do wrong—but because he tried to be right . . .

BAND LEADERS ON AIR :-: Newspaper Camera Men's Adventures to Be Told

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

RISKS THAT ARE taken by newspaper photographers in obtaining pictures of the day are to be recounted on WJAS at 6 o'clock tonight by Peter Stone, editor of International News Photos. Del Staigers, cornetist in Goldman's Band, anticipates a large evening on WCAE at 8:30 he plays the poignant "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice." from "Samson and Delilah," and at 9:30, on KDKA, he helps celebrate for his boss, Edwin Franko Goldman . . . 25 band leaders, including the versatile Mayhew Lake, are to participate in this latter concert. . . . A three-violin burlesque on "Auch Du Lieber Augustine," on WCAE at 9:30, looks delicious . . . also the singing of "Blue Again" by the Revelers Quartet . . . Martin Johnson, big game hunter, tells of his experiences in Africa, on WCAE at 10:30 . . . and as an added attraction the tenor songbird, James Melton, contributes "I Hear You Calling Me." . . . Jim Hughes once informed us that Miller and Lyles, should they ever "go radio," would outshine Amos 'n' Andy . . . we shall take him at his word, on WABC at 7:30 tonight, when the famous Negro comedians of two decades ago make their Columbia network debut.

Darrell V. Martin

Question a Day:

Very frequently you speak of production men at radio studios. What do they do?—Mrs. Adda Bauman, Perrysville.

Answer—A production man in a radio program has the same duty to perform as a director in a motion picture. He is responsible for the program at hand, even to the last minute changes in the continuity, and any adlibbing that may take place. He has to be a good showman with a super-knowledge of human nature, particularly temperaments. Placing of the microphone and artists for best acoustics are a part of his work. No one "talks back" to a production man.

The "Sleepytown Express" becomes "Fast Freight" on WJAS at 9 o'clock.

Studio Lights

"Singin' Sam" on CBS rates on a par with Ed Harvey in projecting the spirit of the late Bert Williams. . .

We would like to hear Ray Griffin sing "Invictus" sometime again. . .

Red Nichols and his "Red Hot Pennies" burn up the WABC air waves at 1 a. m. Thursday. . .

Announcing is not the royal road to success . . . a Russian prince, a Chinese merchant and an Italian count were among the 229 who flunked recently in a CBS audition. . .

Speedy stenogs, try this one. . . "a quick movement of the enemy fleet would jeopardize six gunboats" . . . Stella Willins, world's champion woman typist, said on WABC that it is the best sentence to test your skill on the keys . . .

Welcome Lewis got her start in radio when a vice president of NBC heard one of her phonograph records at a party . . .

Dr. H. P. Davis, "Father of Radio Broadcasting," is recuperating at his home in East End after an operation . . . rumors persist that Dr. Davis is to become President of NBC when Merlin Aylesworth goes on as prexy of R. C. A. . . . Dr. Davis is now chairman of the NBC board of directors.

The big fight in New York tonight is not to be broadcast.

Well, well, well . . . Nick Kenny's New York radio poll is over and the winners are Rudy Vallee, Kate Smith and A. L. Alexander, the man who announces Tom Noonan . . . McNamee finished second, Ted Husing, third, Frank Knight, fourth, and John S. Young next.

TiredFEET
revived instantly

The minute you put your sore, burning feet in a TIZ bath you can just feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort soaking in. TIZ draws out acids and poisons that make feet tender, achy and sore. Also takes pain out of corns, calluses and bunions. Revives tired feet and makes them sweet, fresh and comfortable. All druggists.

Remnant Day

Where Else . . . But

Boggs & Buhl

The very mention of these words "Remnant Day" means one store and only one store to the people of this community—Boggs & Buhl. The first Remnant Day that we know of was held at this store well over a half century ago and the supremacy of Remnant Day at Boggs & Buhl has never been approached by any other store.

The most conspicuous event of the year with us; bringing more shoppers than on any other single day of the year. Thousands come from miles around. Hundreds wait for weeks for the great event. "When is Remnant Day" is a query that we begin hearing from our patrons weeks before the date is set.

A sale must be worthy of keen interest and popularity—and this sale always is. We are jealous of the tremendous good will that Remnant Days have built for this store—and will wholeheartedly continue to let nothing undone that will help maintain the fine reputation the occasion has.

This is notice in advance—Friday is the great day—and we promise you a real "old time" Remnant Day—one that will take you back to the low prices that prevailed in Boggs & Buhl Remnant Days before the war. Read tomorrow's newspapers—they will carry news that will make everybody sit up and take notice!

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, July 22. — In launching its television system last night Columbia marshaled for the front portion of its parade of personalities stars not, as you might think, of radio, but of the Broadway stage.

It cast a net over the theater, scooped up Ed Wynn and Helen Gilligan, supplemented them by such entertainers of theatrical experiences under contract to the network as Kate Smith, Ben Alley.

Thus Columbia got off to a good publicity start. But without the publicity it would seem in the broadcasting camp that people of the theater, rather than strictly of radio, will have first call when television makes its bow on a big scale.

There must be rejoicing on Broadway this morning. Long-patient members of the Lambs, the Players, the Friars, scanning hopefully the amusement horizon, can actually discern their ship coming in. The ship, it is true, is still a long way off. It may take a couple of years to reach shore, but it can be seen. And that's something.

This department has long set up a feeble cry for Wynn, believing that radio could use his rare gift of nonsense with its inescapable note of pathos just beneath the most infectious chuckle of our time. Broadcasters paid no heed, or if they did, they met a stubborn Wynne. Yet, here he is dominating the first television program of the Columbia network.

The actors along Broadway are, of course, watching, biding their time, waiting for the day. Der Tag—that's what it is. The day when the magical forces of electricity will lead them into the promised land of plenty. For a considerable period they believed that radio would prove their El Dorado.

Pittsburgh Academy Reunion Saturday

Senator Dwight W. Morrow and Rear Admiral F. C. Bullard, early graduates of the Oakdale Academy, now the Pittsburgh Academy, have been invited to attend the annual reunion of alumni, to be held this year at the Boys' Industrial Home, Hastings Avenue, Oakdale, on Saturday at 2 p. m. A picnic supper at 6 p. m. will be followed by a program of reminiscences and music.

The original building of the Oakdale Academy, one of Pennsylvania's pioneer educational institutions, still stands, unoccupied, in Oakmont.

Gillespie Funeral.

Funeral services for W. E. Gillespie, 44, of 2300 Wilson avenue, North Side, who died Monday, will be held at the home tonight. He was a lifelong resident of North Side, and was traveling freight agent for the Pittsburgh-Harrisburg district of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. He was formerly an employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He leaves two daughters, Elizabeth and Eleanore Gillespie, both of Pittsburgh. Burial will be in Uniondale Cemetery tomorrow.

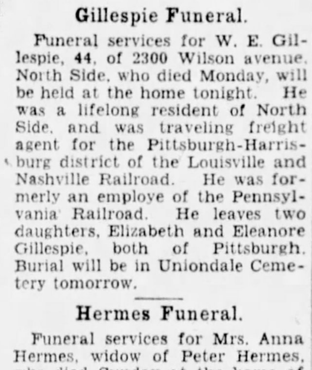
Hermes Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Hermes, widow of Peter Hermes, who died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Friday, Leetsdale road, Sewickley, were to be held today in St. James Church, Sewickley. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Friday, and a son, John R. Hermes. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Floyd Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Charles Floyd, 84, who died Monday in her home, 404 Taylor avenue, were to be held today in the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, of which she was a member. She leaves a son, Walter B. Floyd, of Columbus, and a daughter, Mrs. Katherine Floyd Hubbard. Burial will be in Uniondale Cemetery.

WARNING!



Free Home From Bugs—No Stains Left on Furniture

Science has discovered a new death spray (harmless to humans) but 100 times more powerful in the destruction of bugs, moths, flies and mosquitoes. This new spray will not stain draperies or fabrics—a marked improvement. Dethol death spray penetrates where brush or broom can't reach. Protect your home and clothes with Dethol—the new death spray that will not stain. Go to your local dealer. Dethol Mfg. Co., Inc., Baltimore, Md.

MARKET METER TIME EXTENDED

An extension until September 15 of the time allowed merchants at the North Side Market House to wire their stalls for electricity for refrigerators and lights was granted by Council yesterday.

Council instructed City Architect Richard Neff and inspectors of the Bureau of Electricity to inspect the market house to determine whether individual meters can be installed with the present wiring. Merchants and a spokesman for the Duquesne Light Company had informed Council the present lines cannot handle the load required under an individual meter system.

Councilman Robert Alderdice said:

"My guess is that when the merchants have to pay for their electricity they'll cut down on its use."

The current is now paid for by the city.

Accident Forecast By Wife, Fall Kills Man

TOWANDA, Pa., July 22. — (AP.) — Byron Groesbeck, 39, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell to the sidewalk from a 45-foot balcony at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Ketcham.

He fell a few minutes after his wife, telling his fortune with cards, predicted he was "about to have a terrible accident." Coroner R. H. Person, whom Mrs. Groesbeck told of the fortune telling, said he would hold an inquest today.

Tom Douglas, Movie Actor, 'Goes Broke'

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—(AP.)—Tom Douglas, motion picture and stage actor, who played an important part in "Journey's End," has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy here.

FORFEIT BEER SEIZED IN RAID

Twenty-seven barrels and 12 half-barrels of beer seized on Seventh street, Brackenridge, June 26, by prohibition agents, while being transported in a truck by John Flaherty, was condemned and forfeited to the government and ordered destroyed by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

The seizure preceded a raid on the plant of the Labor Products and Ice Company, Brackenridge. Prohibition agents said the loaded truck left the brewery property, but the allegation was denied by witnesses for the company at a hearing before Judge R. M. Gibson. The order for destruction of the beer was made by Judge Schoonmaker when no claimants appeared in court.

The company has been cited by the Department of Alcohol Control for a revocation hearing. It holds a federal permit authorizing the manufacture of cereal beverages.

Someone is arriving or going all the time, so that one is never quite sure who is and who isn't in town.

Society Travels

The Carl H. Borntraegers and their daughter, Rita, plan to go to their Beaumaris (Canada) home this week some time. Mrs. Borntraeger already has been there this summer.

Yesterday Mrs. Borntraeger's mother, Mrs. William E. Evans, arrived in town. Mrs. Evans, who was Mrs. Marshall L. Jenkins, of the Schenley Apartments, before her April wedding, returned with Mr. Evans on the Leviathan from a European honeymoon. They toured Norway, Sweden and the British Isles, and are now at home in the Schenley Apartments.

Visiting In Quogue

Ellen McClay, daughter of the Samuel McClays, of Devon road, is in Quogue, L. I., have you heard?

The Thomas J. Hilliards and their family have gone to Lake Muskoka, Canada, for the remainder of the summer, I've heard.

And the Raymond Hilliards have taken the A. Rex Flinn's summer cottage on the Kittanning Pike for the summer.

Tomorrow Joan Diehl will go to New York for a week. She divides her time between New York and Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Roy Arthur Hunt, Mrs. W. J. Patterson and Miss Isabelle Adams have been at the St. Regis Hotel, New York.

Summer Travels

The Robert B. Kings, of "Baywood," North Negley avenue, have come down from "The Algonquin," St. Andrew's, New Brunswick, to Murray Bay, where they're spending some time. Later they'll motor through Canadada and the Laurentian mountains before returning home.

Mrs. Callender Irvine Leiper entertained today with a morning party and luncheon at the Edgeworth Club.

James Lippincott and his daughters, Mariana and Adele, who were debs of the past winter, and Louise and Nancy, his younger daughters, and his sister, Miss Emily Lippincot, plan to go to Canada this week, where they'll spend the month of August in their summer home at Ahmic Lake.

The John T. Taylors, of St. James street, have been invited to attend the wedding of Olga Havelock Adams, daughter of the Lord and Lady Mayoress, of New Castle-Upon-Tyne, England, on August 4, in St. George's Church, Jesmond, England. The lord mayor, Alderman David Adams, is a cousin of Mr. Taylor. The Adamses visited the Taylors a few years ago here.

WOOL POPULAR FOR GOLFING GARMENTS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 22.—We are just wild about wooly clothes judging by the amount of woolen frocks and suits encountered everywhere. We wear frocks of fine, sheet woolen for all occasions and the best sports ensembles are in wool. One sees all sorts of costumes on the golf links, ranging from an uncompromisingly severe sweater and skirt to outfits that look as though they had stepped out of a musical comedy show. The woman who takes her golf and her clothes seriously generally manages to wear ensembles that are practical, yet extremely chic, a cross between the two extremes of severity and fussiness. And for such a costume, one finds much use for wool and a clever handling of color. Skirts are of a sensible length with pleats used in various ways to achieve the necessary width of hem without too much fullness. Such a costume, can be worn frequently and is always correct, whatever the season, unless of course it is too warm.

SKETCHED today is Worth's newest version of a sports ensemble quite obviously intended for the fair golfer. It has a knitted wool cardigan in white with the cuffs, border and half belt in wine red, matching the woolen skirt. There is a sleeveless blouse of white wash crepe dotted with squares of dark red, the scarf collar of which is just visible in the sketch. Two wide box pleats at the front of the skirt are set into piecings at the top.

CARNEGIE ASKS ROAD PAVING

County commissioners have asked the Department of Public Works' engineers to submit drawings and the estimated cost of improving Whisly Run road to the Pittsburgh and Washington pike at the intersection of Banksville road.

Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen, heading a delegation of Carnegie residents, told the commissioners yesterday that the proposed improvement would provide a much needed shortcut from the Carnegie section to Pittsburgh.

Edward Schade, chairman of the O'Hara Township commissioners, was told the county officials would study his request for a modern lighting system on the Dorseyville road.

Responding to a request from C. M. Forbes, county commissioners ordered a seal coat surface for about 1,000 feet of East Orchard avenue, in Ross Township.

PARCEL POST WEIGHT RAISED

Postmaster J. B. Anderson announced amended postal regulations increasing weight and size limits of parcel-post mail in the fourth to eighth zones, inclusive, effective August 1. The weight has been increased from 50 to 70 pounds and the size from 84 inches to 100 inches in length and width.

The Postmaster recommends the parcel post for quick service at a low cost.

The charge on a 70-pound parcel in the fourth zone, 300 to 600 miles distance, is $2.84; fifth zone, 600 to 1,000 miles, $4.23; sixth zone, 1,000 to 1,400 miles, $5.62; seventh zone, 1,400 to 1,800 miles, $7.02, and eighth zone, over 1,800 miles, $8.41.

On parcel mailed for delivery within the first and second zones, where the distance by the shortest regular mail route from the office of origin to the office of delivery is 300 miles or more, the rate is 8 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound.

NO. 402.

AN ORDINANCE—Accepting the dedication of certain property in the Nineteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, for public use for highway purposes; appropriating the same for the widening of Bigham Street, from Virginia Avenue to Omaha Street, fixing the width and position of the sidewalks and roadway thereof, providing for slopes, parking, retaining walls and steps and establishing the grade thereof.

WHEREAS, Robert S. Frazer, W. S. Linderman, A. E. Braun and A. W. Robertson, the board of managers of the Buhl Foundation, all of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, owners of the property hereinafter described have executed and delivered to the City of Pittsburgh their certain Deed of Dedication, dated June 19th, 1931, now on file in the Office of the Bureau of Engineering of the said City, wherein they have conveyed said ground to said City for public highway purposes, and have released said City from any liabilities for damages for or by reason of the physical grading of the said public highway to the grade herein established, therefore:

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the said Deed of Dedication shall be and the same is hereby accepted, and the Bureau of Engineering is hereby authorized and directed to place the same of record in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds in and for the County of Allegheny.

SECTION 2. The ground as aforesaid conveyed to the said City for highway purposes shall be and the same is hereby appropriated for the widening of Bigham street, from Virginia avenue to Omaha street, in accordance with the terms of said Deed of Dedication, the same being bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING on the southerly line of Virginia avenue at a point distant north 78 degrees 31 minutes 30 seconds west 25.02 feet along the southerly line of Virginia avenue from the intersection of the southerly line of Virginia avenue and the easterly line of Bigham street; thence extending south 9 degrees 15 minutes west 520.67 feet, parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 25 feet west of the easterly line of Bigham street, to the southerly line of Omaha street; thence along the southerly line of Omaha street produced north 80 degrees 45 minutes west 40.87 feet to a point; thence northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 185 feet, a central angle of 23 degrees 54 minutes 16 seconds, and a chord bearing north 21 degrees 12 minutes 8 seconds east, for an arc distance of 77.18 feet to a point of tangent; thence by the tangent north 9 degrees 15 minutes east 446.68 feet, parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 50 feet west of the easterly line of Bigham street, to the southerly line of Virginia avenue; thence along the southerly line of Virginia avenue south 78 degrees 31 minutes 30 seconds east 25.02 feet to the place of beginning. Containing 13,419 square feet.

SECTION 3. The width and position of the sidewalks and roadway shall be and the same are hereby fixed as follows, to-wit:

THE CURB lines shall each be parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 13 feet from their respective street lines.

THE WESTERLY sidewalk shall have a uniform width of 13 feet and occupy the portion of the street lying between the westerly line of the street as widened and the westerly curb line.

THE EASTERLY sidewalk shall have a uniform width of 8 feet and lie along and contiguous to the easterly curb line.

THE ROADWAY shall have a uniform width of 24 feet and occupy the portion of the street between the above described curb lines.

THE REMAINING portion of the street, being a strip 5 feet in width lying between the above described easterly sidewalk and the easterly street line, shall be used for slopes, parking, retaining walls and steps.

SECTION 4. The grade of the easterly curb line shall be and the same is hereby established as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING at the southerly 19-foot curb line of Virginia avenue at an elevation of 397.15 feet (curb as set); thence rising at the rate of 2.50 per cent for a distance of 100 feet to a point of curve to an elevation of 400.32 feet; thence by a convex parabolic curve for a distance of 200 feet to a point of tangent to an elevation of 404.82 feet; thence falling at the rate of 9 per cent for a distance of 199.12 feet to a point of curve to an elevation of 376.90 feet; thence by a concave parabolic curve for a distance of 50 feet to the northerly 5.50-foot curb line of Omaha street to an elevation of 376 feet.

SECTION 5. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Robert Ames Is Cast as Rival To George Bancroft in 'Rich Man's Folly'

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.

Anyway you look at it, Robert Ames is a lucky man. The studios all want him to make pictures, and he is the prime favorite of the gay Ina Claire.

His immediate destiny, as far as acting is concerned, will be to play George Bancroft's business rival in "Rich Man's Folly." This is a story of ship building and Bancroft, along with Director John Cromwell and a camera crew, now is on his way to Quincy, Mass., in search of authentic atmosphere.

Robert Ames

As he doesn't appear in these scenes, Ames will not join the company until its return to Hollywood. By this time a leading woman also will have been selected.

"Rich Man's Folly" is Bancroft's first picture since "Scandal Sheet," a matter of 10 months ago.

STAR'S KIN IS EXTRA

One of the 17,000 extras in Hollywood is Ariane Eagels, a cousin of the late Jeanne Eagels, star of "Rain." The actress, who closely resembles her famous cousin, has been out here a year and a half, but she has never revealed the relationship. She even changed her hairdress and arched her eyebrows because people remarked on the likeness.

"I don't believe in trading on anybody else's fame," she says. "Jeanne was the first one to advise me to go on the stage, and it would have been a poor way of repaying her to make capital of my name."

Before coming to Hollywood, the actress played in stock in the East and did a few small parts on Broadway. She now rates in the first ranks of the extras.

A LUCKY THING

If we can believe Louis MacLoon, the new Reno slogan is:

"One man's mate is another man's poison."

LATEST GOSSIP

The William K. Howards have signed a truce. Or at least Bill has moved his things back from the Athletic Club.... With a new contract and a birthday to celebrate, Richard Dix is free-wheeling at Ensenada.... Al Jolson spent the week-end at Caliente, renewing acquaintance with some of the aficionados of the winter race season.... The Wheelers and the Woolseys are coming home from Europe. Bert and Bob play the Capital in New York the last two weeks in August.... A college boy from the University of Chicago is taking up most of Frances Dee's time these days.... Eric Lind, ex-Theater Guild player, gets a five-year contract at R-K-O. And if things keep up, he'll be getting another contract with Roberta Gale, the radiant redhead who resembles Clara Bow.... John Halliday will take a flyer at co-directing. His first assignment is "Sour Grapes."

John Halliday

Lonely

Fay Wray is seen as the lonely wife of an adventuring airman in "Dirigible," which will be shown on the Warner screen next week.

Cromwell Impressed By Star's Portrayal

Richard Cromwell, the young Los Angeles artist, who created a sensation as "Tol'able David," saw a preview of "The Miracle Woman," with Barbara Stanwyck. Impressed with her performance, he made a portrait mask of Miss Stanwyck and presented it to her with the inscription, "From Tol'able David" to "The Miracle Woman."

Prudence

Somewhere, my dear, your search will have an ending,
And you will find your gay and glamorous knight,
Love is well worth the quest—the time you're spending
Will be repaid on ev'ry star-drenched height;
He will be all that you could ever ask for—
You will grow humble—arrogance will fade,
Always the world holds one we must unmask for—
So, when you meet be strangely unafraid.

Tell him his voice is all you wish to heed to—
Tell him his mouth is wine against your own;
And, who can tell—the paths you take may lead to Lands where a pair can win a golden throne;
But, if he asks of days we spent together—
Tell him—we're having very humid weather!

The Squelch Delightful

One of the colleges strenuously objects to students who enjoy reading the tabloid newspapers. One co-ed, however, Simply Must Read Them, and she braved the stares of colleagues by appearing with a copy of the Daily Mirror the other noontime. As a rule, the students alibi their tabloid complex with:

"I'm taking up journalism, and one who does ought to read all types of newspapers."

At any rate, our heroine was shamelessly reading her favorite column the other day when she was crushed with:

"I must say your taste in literature is appalling! Oh, why do you read that paper?"

The co-ed folded her tabloid in four and placed it in the back of her black-leather notebook, hiding the paper completely.

"Let me see you do that with the Times!" she snapped.

Reportorial Inaccuracy

Reporting Ina Claire's action for divorce, a neighbor states that her former husband, a dramatic critic, reviewed her in a play and said:

"When I married my wife she told me she was an actress. Now I know that she deceived me."

What James Whitaker, her former critic-husband, wrote was:

"She gave no indication of that at last evening's performance."

Repartee

"Whatever became of the old gag, 'A dollar doesn't go as far as it used to, but it goes faster?'"

"It's on page 3 of Judge this week!"

Flaw

As a general rule, writes George Jean Nathan, in Judge, no one agrees with a critic but an actor or a playwright whom he praises, and then only if the praise is unreservedly superlative.

Far be it from us to proofread Mr. N., but the line should read "an actor, a playright or a producer . . ."

Speakeasy Etiquette

George Martin asserts he heard it in one of the sin-spots. A stewed sister spilled some of her laughing soup on her frock.

"Aw," admonished her companion, "don't wear it—drink it!"

Have An Example

A few columns or so ago we told how third-rate it appeared when you got indignant on paper. Have yourself a pain-in-the-neck with the following hysteria from a magazine writer:

"The amazing thing is that studios will stand for this rot from foreigners when there are hundreds of honest-to-goodness Americans, just as capable, howling for admission. The Von Sternbergs, the Mamoulians and all the rest of the outfit had better go back where they belong if they can't learn to treat Americans with respect!"

And they stifle yawns!

Depression Plus

To hear the night clubs groan about it is most depressing, of course. You find yourself thinking of other matters when they commence to complain about how tough things are. You cannot feel very sorry for the crowd that made plenty when the making was good.

But one of the places has a legitimate squawk. True, the place was playing to more entertainers than patrons, but it managed to get by, for its heaviest spender never failed to come in every night. His check never bounced back and it helped pay off the show.

So what has to happen? Dorothy Barton, one of the better-lookers in the revue, had to elope with him! And instead of honey-mooning in the Bronx some place she took him to Canada!

As a result the night club may have to close, throwing all her colleagues out of work.

In Fewer Words

And then there was the crisp crack from a caustic critic, who summed up a new revue with:

"No run, no hit, a thousand errors!"

Mary Astor Will Star In 'Smart Woman'

"Nancy's Private Affair" has been retitled by Radio Pictures, and will be known as "Smart Woman." This is the Myron Fagan play wherein Mary Astor will be starred, supported by John Halliday and Robert Ames. Noel Francis, former Ziegfeld beauty, who has been steadily climbing in film favor, is also featured. Others in the cast are Ruth Weston, Gladys Gale, Edward Everett Horton, Pearl Varvelle and Alfred Cross. Gregory La Cava is the director of the piece.

Hearst News Shows Big Meeting

THE GLOBE TROTTER

In the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn and other theaters, shows a vast audience in Albert Hall, London, to hear the cause of world peace extolled by famous British statesmen. Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin, and former Premier Lloyd George, rarely seen and heard from the same platform, electrified the gathering as they pleaded for peace. Premier MacDonald declared that Great Britain, at the Geneva conference next February, would bring to bear every possible pressure and argument to continue a reduction in armaments among the nations in Europe.

A thrilling picture of the destruction of an Australian destroyer, that had outlived its usefulness, off the harbor of Sydney, is shown and graphically described by the Globe Trotter. It was used as a mark by Australian navy gunners.

The elimination tests of the James Gordon Bennett balloon cup races held at Akron, O., shows a dozen of the great gas bags leaving the ground.

Archery is becoming so popular throughout the country that the girls of Douglas School at Del Monte, Cal., indulge in the sport even while bathing. While diving they fly the arrow at a floating target.

In the village of Wayne, N. J., a man has started a bear farm, where a score of these cute little fellows are being raised. Their antics provide a laugh a minute.

The annual yacht regatta at Larchmont, N. Y., opens with an exciting contest between a score of sloops. They present a picture of unusual beauty.

Paris' annual celebration of Bastile Day, equivalent of the American Fourth of July, was unusually interesting this year. The French republic's legions are shown marching before President Doumer and other distinguished officials.

La Claire Goes Romantic

As an immediate and interesting result of the success of Ina Claire's performance in "Rebound," it was announced yesterday that Miss Claire's career in pictures will from now on be entirely dedicated to roles of a dramatic and emotional nature, rather than to the type of sophisticated comedy which brought Miss Claire to fame in the legitimate theater. In conformity with this policy it has been decided that the light-hearted role of Jean in "The Greeks had a Word for It" will not be played by Miss Claire as has been planned. Instead, a vehicle and role of more emotional character will be shortly announced. It has not yet been determined who will replace Miss Claire in "The Greeks had a Word for It."

Douglas MacLean Plans Alaskan Journey

Douglas MacLean will leave shortly for Alaska to obtain atmospheric background for an original story which he is to do for Radio Pictures, according to an announcement by William LeBaron, production head.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Ethel Barrymore, who was seen here last season in the company of her mother, appearing in "Scarlet Sister Mary," will receive an apple for luck from her mother when she plays in George White's "Scandals," now in rehearsal. The apple donation, it appears, is in accordance with an old Drew-Barrymore tradition, and specimens of Eden's most celebrated fruit may be expected by Miss Ethel from her uncles, John and Lionel, her mother says. Miss Colt studied voice in Italy. She will sing, dance and act in sketches in "Scandals." Miss Colt will not be the first of the Drew-Barrymore line to appear in a musical show. Uncle John did it on both stage and screen.

Small Timer assures his audience that things are so tough that even the contortionists are having trouble to make both ends meet.

If you want to keep up with the Barrymores you ought to know that Lionel is wanted back on the stage since he clicked with another outstanding screen characterization in the Norma Shearer film, "A Free Soul." He has received telegrams from several Broadway managers offering engagements. Standing between Barrymore and the stage is a fillum contract with M-G-M.

* * *

Small Timer says it isn't moonshine that makes him light-headed, but the small amount of lamp-black that he uses in making up.

Fred Waring, whose orchestra is in the Penn, was one of the invited guests at the luncheon yesterday which opened the convention of the Pennsylvania Police Chiefs' Association. He invited members of the association and their families to be his guests in the theater.

Small Timer advises any girl that the way to keep her youth is not to introduce him to any other damsel.

* * *

Dr. Rockwell, headliner of vaudeville and musical comedy, has been signed to make one of a series of short comedy films for next season's release.

EddieCantor'sNewFilm Is Completed

"Palmy Days," Eddie Cantor's new screen comedy, was yesterday completed on the Samuel Goldwyn stages in Hollywood and the task of editing and cutting the second talking picture from the goggle-eyed comic was begun. Charlotte Greenwood has the leading comedy role opposite Eddie, while Barbara Weeks, a new discovery of Goldwyn's, has the principal ingenue role and also heads the heralded battalion of "the thousand most beautiful girls in Hollywood." Edward Sutherland directed.

BEWARE!

If You're Told Some Other Preparation Is the Same as GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN

WATCH OUT

THIS warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practised against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

We take this means of warning you, so you may be able to protect yourself and your family against the results of such deception.

BEWARE!

Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how Genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW.

The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories, with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for.

Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse substitutes.

12 WAYS You Can PROVE.. ALLSTATE is America's Greatest Tire Value!

When we put ALLSTATE tires on the market, it was with the thought that they would be worthy of the Sears name and the Sears reputation. So we went to the manufacturer whose record was without a single blemish—whose products were accepted everywhere as the standard of rubber quality.

Thus the greatest tire manufacturing organization, trained and experienced in the production of America's finest tires, and the world's greatest distributing organization, dealing with over 12 million families, joined in making and selling ALLSTATE tires. Unknown six years ago—unnamed as well—ALLSTATE'S quality has brought this tire to leadership in sales direct to users. Never, in the history of the tire industry, has there been a success to match ALLSTATE'S. Today individual tire buyers, in selecting tires, pick ALLSTATE over all other brands.

AND YOU SAVE 25%

ALLSTATE is a first quality tire. First quality, we said, and we mean that. We are willing to let you judge by quality standards alone whether ALLSTATE tires are the tires for you to buy.

ALLSTATE is so good, so well made, so sturdily built, that we are proud of its construction. There are, as all tire engineers know, 12 real factors of quality in every tire—not three, not six, not nine, but twelve. So that you may know them, we are listing them here.

Compare ALLSTATE, point by point, with any first quality tire on the market. Don't take our word for it. Learn yourself. Having proved to your own satisfaction that ALLSTATE is superior, then remember we save you 25% on your tire purchases.

One out of every nine tires bought by tire users is an ALLSTATE. The next time you buy tires, buy ALLSTATE—the tire which millions know to be the greatest tire value in America.

COMPARE These PRICES

Automobile manufacturers do not use the Second Line Tires of National Manufacturers as original equipment. Why should you take the risk when you can save money by buying genuine, FIRST QUALITY ALLSTATE TIRES, backed by a responsible guarantee and with a saving of 25%? Even if the tire size for your car is not listed, we have it—and we will save you up to 25%.

THE GUARANTEE BEHIND ALLSTATE
The entire resources of this forty-five year old organization, doing an annual business of over $400,000,000 direct with the consumer, are back of every ALLSTATE tire. More than 12 million families know by actual experience that the guarantee of Sears, Roebuck and Co. is a definite obligation which we carry out to the letter. This guarantee means what it says:
"We Guarantee ALLSTATE tires to be first quality tires in every respect; we guarantee them to give satisfactory service, without limitation as to time or mileage. If any ALLSTATE tire fails to give you the service you have a right to expect, or fails to give you equal service with any other first quality tire, we will repair or replace it, charging only for the proportionate wear it has delivered. Further, we Guarantee a Saving on every ALLSTATE tire."

STUDENT RODEO TOMORROW

A rodeo for men students and faculty attending the summer session at the University of Pittsburgh tomorrow, in Trees Gym, will replace the annual men's luncheon this year, it was announced today. The razing of the old Faculty Club, the former H. K. Porter estate, was responsible for the change of program, it was said.

Athletic events, refreshments and a German band will hold sway from 2 to 5 p. m. Mushball, tennis, track events, swimming contests, handball and tap dancing will follow several rounds of professional boxing. The bouts have been arranged by John Dambach, director of physical education, and Joe Orsini, boxing coach.

Ice cream, cake and lemonade will be served throughout the afternoon. The German band will be composed of members of the Pitt summer session symphony orchestra.

John Dambach in charge of the rodeo, will be assisted by Dr. G. A. Yoakum and Frank W. Shockley.

RECORDS MADE BY PITT MEN

Company B, of which University of Pittsburgh Medical R. O. T. C. men are members, at Carlisle Barracks, Carlisle, Pa., has established some athletic and military records.

They won a track meet held at Stark Field last week by a five-point margin. The baseball team needs to win but one more game for the camp championship.

The company to which Pittsburgh boys belong established a new record of 31 minutes for complete erection of the basic unit of a hospital center at field exercises. They were acting as hospital company of the medical regiment. This time was nine minutes better than any previous record and compares favorably with Army time, it is said.

Student in Yawl Sails for England

YORK HARBOR, Me., July 22.—(AP.)—The 31-foot yawl Noddy, skippered by William H. Bacon, Jr., 19, of West Newton, Mass., a junior at the University of Nebraska, and with one seaman aboard, sailed today for England.

Bacon and Harold Matthews, an experienced sailor, plan to follow the coast as far as Newfoundland and then strike off along the steamer lane to England.

IMPORTANT NOTICE . .

UNION LEADER DENIES RACKET CHARGES

Official of Electricians' Body Brands as 'Lie' Statement of Contractors

Characterizing as "deliberate lies" the charges of intimidation made yesterday by independent electrical contractors, M. P. Gordon, an official of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, today said he "failed to understand" the motive for the charges. He and William G. Shord were named in the accusations.

Robert C. Carmack, manager of the Allegheny County Electrical Contractors' Association, blamed Shord and Gordon for attempting to prevent independent contractors from bidding on big jobs, such as the airport contract. In a statement issued yesterday, Carmack said:

"We will not tolerate the introduction into our business of Chicago racketeering methods, nor will we yield to dictation by anyone."

Gordon today replied:

"That's a deliberate lie, for we ourselves are the ones that built the association. I put him in his job. The best friend they have is the union. The only thing we're interested in is that employers use men from our union. We're not interested in bids; that's not our business. We furnish men to anybody that signs our agreement, regardless of whether they belong to any association."

Boy Robbed of $500 Walking in Sleep

LEBANON, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—Detroit police notified Lebanon authorities that Donald Shounders, 18, of this city, was robbed of $500 while sleep walking.

Shounders, who was traveling from Lebanon to Detroit in search of work, stated that he fell asleep at Toledo while in a car with three unidentified men. When he woke up, he said, he was walking the streets of Detroit, the three man and his money gone.

Truck Victim

SAMUEL SEMICH, 8

Samuel, 54 South Eighth street, killed when he was struck by a truck near his home.

WOMAN AND BOY AUTO VICTIMS

Mrs. Catherine Russell, 70, of Connellsville street, Fayette City, was killed near West Newton last night when the car in which she was riding collided, police said, with one driven by J. W. Halbery, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Halbery's son, Kenneth, 21, injured, was taken to the Monongahela Hospital. The drivers, Mrs. Russell's son, John, 26, and Halbery, were held for the coroner.

Suffering a fractured skull when struck by a truck near his home last night, Samuel Semich, 8, of 54 South Eighth street, was taken to the office of Dr. M. F. Creaven, 1001 Carson street, where he died a short time later.

Herbert Shaffer, 20, of 414 Diamond way, Carnegie, alleged driver, was turned over to the coroner.

LANG'S STREET UP IN HEARING

A public hearing was to be held today in Council on objections of property owners on Wilksboro avenue, where Public Works Director Edward G. Lang lives, to Lang's plan for grading, paving and curbing the street.

When they purchased their properties, the complainants declare, it was understood there was to be a 50-foot street, with a 30-foot roadway. They assert the department's plan for a 22-foot roadway would not improve their properties.

Tom M. Reed, department engineer, told Council yesterday he had had no special instructions from Lang on improvement of the street. He said, however, that Lang told him:

"I don't care what you do to my property, but do not destroy the trees and terraces on the remainder of the street if you can help it."

Reed said the 12 objectors to Lang's plan represent 420 feet of property and those favoring it represent twice that extent of frontage.

AUDIT SOUGHT IN POOR FUND

On motion of C. C. McGovern, the County Commissioners have asked their solicitor, M. B. Lesher, for a legal opinion on the commissioners' authority to demand an accounting of financial affairs from the directors of the poor.

In an oral opinion, Lesher seemed inclined to doubt the commissioners' authority to pry into the poor directors' method of spending money without the passage of the new legislation in Harrisburg.

McGovern, however, pointed out that while the poor directors fixed its tax levy, now one and one-half mills, the commissioners were required to raise the money. McGovern declared the county controller included in his annual report the poor directors' audit and was empowered by law to examine the directors' books.

OCTANE RATING

METHOD OF MEASURING ANTI-KNOCK VALUE OF MOTOR FUEL

72 BLUE SUNOCO

Average Octane Rating of Regular Price Gasolines 59 2/10

U. S. Bureau of Mines Report, March, 1931

BLUE SUNOCO

Steps up its Knockless Rating . . . . .
Keeping Ahead of Motor Requirements

BLUE SUNOCO was the first knockless motor fuel to sell at regular gas price. Today it leads the procession as it always has.

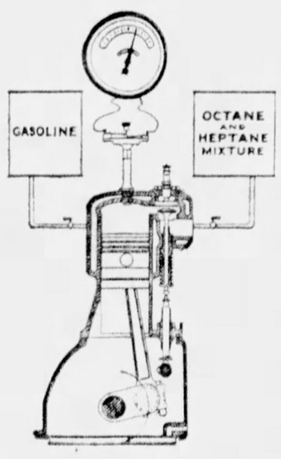
Authorities agree that gasoline over 70 octane rating is essential for modern motors. Premium priced fuels substantiate this fact by having an average octane rating of 73 7/10 (U. S. Bureau of Mines Report, March, 1931).

This premium rating of BLUE SUNOCO, which in and around this city has advisedly been held at 72+, proves it is a high powered, knockless, quality motor fuel.

BLUE SUNOCO sells at regular gas price. You save at least 3c per gallon.

How OCTANE RATING Is Determined

INTO the head of the testing motor is placed the Midgely Bouncing Pin, a scientific instrument which forms an electrical contact when the motor knocks.



The contact caused by the engine knock is at once registered electrically on a dial.

The motor is run on the gasoline whose octane rating is to be measured. The load on the motor is increased until the dial registers knocking.

Without stopping the motor, the gasoline is cut off, and the motor is run, with the same load, on a mixture of octane and heptane.

Different mixtures are tried until the dial again registers knocking. The percentage of octane in the mixture in use at that time is the octane rating of the gasoline.

Octane is a fluid costing $25.00 a gallon. Running on octane, a motor cannot be made to knock. Heptane is another costly liquid. Using heptane, however, a motor knocks violently.

Therefore, the higher the percentage of octane in the mixture of octane and heptane, which matches the gasoline being tested, the better is the knockless performance and the higher is the octane rating of that gasoline.

BLUE SUNOCO

THE ONLY TRUE BLUE

SLEUTH TELLS OF BOMB CASE EXPLOITS

Hazelton Chief Describes Explosion Wrecking Home; Attends Convention Here

Bombings should be solvable within 10 days, according to Chief Dan T. McKelvie, of Hazleton, Pa., who is here attending the eighteenth annual convention of the Association of Police Chiefs of Pennsylvania.

McKelvie, rated as an expert on bomb cases, compared the recent series of bombings in Allegheny County to one in Schuylkill County in 1928. He was hired, he said, by a group of citizens to investigate a series of vendetta bombings, climaxed by the burning of the home of a priest who had objected to the crime wave.

CHIEF'S HOME BOMBED

Within 72 hours of the burning of the priest's home, he said, the gang and its ringleader were apprehended, and within two weeks they were sentenced to jail. Aroused at this activity, McKelvie said, the vendetta bombed his home, destroying everything in it. He said:

"The beds were blown from under myself, my wife and children. Everything in the house was destroyed beyond use. The house had to be rebuilt.

"These men were caught in no time, too, and the bombings ceased.

"The cure for bombings is rapid, efficient detection and cooperation of courts in obtaining convictions."

MISTAKES FREQUENT

McKelvie declared a series of bombings are frequently traceable to the same gang. In many cases, he said, homes are mistaken, as may have happened in the house of Thomas S. Conley, leader in the Citizens League in McKees Rocks, whose home was bombed July 8. The theory has been advanced that the bomb was intended for the home of a neighbor, where a still and liquor was found after the explosion.

BABIES ENTERED IN BEAUTY SHOW

RUTH RABONE, 2

Miss Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Rabone, 107 Eighteenth street, Homestead, and Mr. Norbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis

NORBERT L. BOLIA, 3

Bolia, 176 Wabash avenue, West End, two of the many entries in the Sun-Telegraph-Kroger Stores baby show at Kennywood Park, August 4.

BIG TASK FACES BABY JUDGES

There will be so many beautiful children entered in the Sun-Telegraph-Kroger Stores' baby beauty contest that the judges are going to be put to a mighty severe test in selecting the winners. Entries have already run into the hundreds and they come from every section of Pittsburgh and vicinity—Sewickley, Swissvale, Squirrel Hill, Bellevue, Mt. Lebanon, East Liberty, Wilmerding, Wilkinsburg, the South Hills, Allegheny—in fact, every divisional district is already represented in the entries.

If you have one or two or three pretty babies in your home—twins, triplets or "quads," here's the place to get expert judgment on their real beauty. It isn't to be expected that every beautiful child will get a silver cup—there's going to be too many beauties in the contest to admit this generosity. But a board of impartial judges will make the selections, and your baby may be one of the winners.

The baby beauty contest will be the feature at the Kroger Stores' annual picnic in the shade of the trees at beautiful Kennywood Park on Tuesday, August 4.

No less than 25 silver cups will be awarded. If you have a pretty baby and would like to win one of these glorious cups, go to your nearest Kroger store, get an entry blank and fill it in. There is no expense to you in any way, shape or manner.

Spanish War Vets Hear Judge Soffel

Judge Sara M. Soffel will address the Huhlings Camp and Auxiliary of the Spanish American War Veterans at Masonic Temple, Collins avenue, tomorrow night on "Work of the County Court as it Touches the Home." She will analyze particularly the work of Desertion and Non-Support Court, and will discuss work of the Juvenile Court.

2 Stills Seized By Dry Agents

A 150-gallon still was seized and 2,300 gallons of mash destroyed by prohibition agents in a raid yesterday on a house at 229 Platt street, they reported.

Confiscation of a 35-gallon still, 15 gallons of moonshine and seven cases of home brew in the home of Harry McCune, of Beck's Run road, Baldwin Township, resulted in his arrest.

SCHOOL BOARD CONTRACTS FOR ALTERATIONS

Lunch Room Supplies Also Awarded for Year; Change at Frick School

The Board of Public Education awarded contracts totaling $5,019 for improvements and alterations yesterday. The contracts were awarded as follows:

Exhibit room, administration building, Robinson and James Company, $910; acoustical work, Schenley High School, Rankin-Dutney Corporation, $2,344; plumbing, Allegheny High School, Campbell, Huggins and Donat Company, $1,290; electric work, Allegheny High School, Rodden Electric Company, $475.

ORDER SUPPLIES

Contracts for lunch room supplies for the coming school year, grate bars, typewriters, calculating machines, steel shelving and miscellaneous supplies also were awarded.

The required course in the Frick Training School for Teachers was extended from three to four years, it was announced. The change will be effective September 1, but students entering school before that date have the privilege of graduating upon completion of the 3-year course.

4-YEAR COURSE

The course of training will be limited to the kindergarten and elementary fields. Dr. Ben G. Graham, city superintendent of schools, was authorized to arrange a four-year course to conform with the requirements of the state department of public instruction.

Opening of the Standard Evening High School on September 1 was authorized.

3 Suspects Held In Theft of Auto

Three Negroes arrested in an automobile they were alleged to have stolen 30 minutes before from Center avenue and Green street, were being held in the Squirrel Hill Police Station today. The trio are William Reynolds, 16, of 2307 Reed street; Yancey Wilson, 17, of 50 Fullerton street, and William Bragg, 16, of 1611 Rowine street, McKeesport. The car was returned to its owner, W. W. Farrar, of 6705 Deary street.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This conference in London ought to be called "A Hard Luck Testimonial Meeting." It had no more than opened than each nation jumped up and told how poor they were, before the others even had a chance to ask 'em for anything. Ramsay MacDonald (a Scotchman), the host and toastmaster, before he finished, had 'em all in tears with England's condition. France brought their own lunch (and not much of it). Even Andrew Mellon, to stave off a possible touch, joined the spirit of the thing and wore a Pennsylvania homespun suit and no socks. It wound up by Germany offering to loan them what little she had left.

Yours, WILL.

Enemy Is Saved Work of Sinking Our Warships

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

That naval holiday was dirty work at the crossroads.

We haven't built boats for so long that we've forgotten how to do it.

Just finished 10 cruisers and none of them will work. The enemy doesn't have to sink them. They sink themselves.

They're lopsided, topheavy, bowlegged and jig-sawed.

That's because our marine architects have been making a living designing two-family bungalows.

The first cruisers we launched rolled right over and played good doggie.

Now they've all got to go into dry dock and get fixed up by some oldtimers from Sailors Snug Harbor.

If a short naval holiday does that to boats, what do you think a debt holiday will do to obligations?

By SALLY MARTIN

Playing About With Other Women's Hubbies Risky

She's strong for the married men.

Because "Oh, boy! They treat you to a grand time!"—

And she can't see anything wrong in helping them to make whoopee while the little women are keeping the home fires burning, tucking the babies safely into their cribs, and otherwise neglecting the big boys.

"Because this is 1931—you know—not 1890."

Such are Margaret's sentiments.

WARNED BY MOTHER

But now mother—old-fashioned mother with her quaint notions about loyalty and decency and love!—has gotten wise to Margaret's racket. And Margaret is shouting for help. Won't we please tell mamma to snap out of it and be her age?

Won't me? Wait and see!

"Dear Sally:

"Will you please help me through your column?

"My mother and father have just found that I have been going around with a married man. Someone phoned mother, and didn't let her know who it was, and asked her to look after her daughter." She questioned me seriously, and got it out of me. She says if I don't give him up, her heart will be broken. She also says she has found out who he is, and is going to tell his wife.

"He has three children, and says his wife is so busy always with them and the house that she hasn't the time to love him, and is so busy watching nickels that she doesn't look snappy, although she is as young as I and very good looking.

"My mother says he will leave me flat, sooner or later, and that if I think anything of my good name, I will preserve it. She says 'anyone can be bad, but it is hard to be strong and good.' Also, that if it is found out, I will lose my job and the respect of all.

"Is she looking at just one side, or not? I have gone out with many married men, and nothing has happened to me. And, believe me, I would rather go out with a married man than a single one. Boy, they treat you to some big time!

AFRAID OF TROUBLE

"This fellow says his wife never drinks or smokes. I think she could hold him if she did.

"I don't know just what to do. Is mother right? Sometimes I think she is, and then I think she is narrow. Remember, this is 1931 . . . not 1890!

"I have noticed, to be frank, that this married boy friend—he is 31 . . . is giving some hints about his being a 'low cur' to treat his wife and kids as he is. Maybe he is thinking about quitting me. But I tell him that while his wife is busy, I can give him the affection he wants . . . and he hasn't said much about ending the affair. But if I don't quit him, I am afraid father will go after him, and then there will be trouble.

Tell me, really, from your point of view, what arguments have I against them?

"That woman who called my mother, and wouldn't say who she was—she must be a big sneak and trouble maker, don't you think? If she had only said who she was, I could frame it that I was innocent, very easy.

"But that isn't all. Last night some man phoned, and told mother the same thing. He wouldn't give his name either. Just some fool, making mother sick and spoiling my good times.

"Please give me your honest opinion. I don't want to hurt mother or dad, but aren't they too religious?

"MARGARET F."

Want my honest opinion?

Well, it isn't much, but you can have it, dearie.

My honest opinion is that you're a callous, cruel, cowardly, contemptible sneak with the heart of a weasel and the brains of a gnat. And the man who would ignore a decent woman for you must have a queer taste in knicknacks.

SOWING POISON

"But this is 1931—not 1890." Well, what of it? Purity and honesty are in as good standing in 1931 as they ever were—and it takes the same intelligence and courage to put them over, which lets you out!

"You're just being modern?" Don't kid yourself. There's nothing modern about you. You and your kind have always been hanging around the gutters, making an honest rat look like a piker. Everyone knows your number—except yourself. And I'm doing my humble best to break the news to you.

No use, of course, talking to you about kindness or decency. You haven't any. If you did have, you wouldn't be out robbing a man's wife by splurging on his and her money—and then listening to him criticise her because she didn't have money for decent clothes!

But I do imagine that you're concerned for the safety of your own neck. So I'm warning you. Wives have been known to turn—with disastrous results. So perhaps you'd better change your beat.

But before you depart, I'd like to ask you just one question. Someday, maybe, you'll be married yourself. Someday, maybe, you'll have to stay at home—while the big boy steps his stuff. Then how will you feel, when some girl does to you what you're doing now?

For, of course, she'll do it. We reap what we sow, lady. And you sure are sowing poison for yourself!

A girl may have the beauty of a goddess and the gifts of genius and yet remain unknown and poor all the days of her life.

Another girl may have little beauty and no talent and yet in one moment become a celebrity—the moment she marries one!

History's pages are filled with the names of women whose sole survival lies in the fact that great men loved them.

The fame achieved instantly in marrying a celebrity is one thing, the success another.

Some ambitious girls have acted with such stupidity in the spotlight of their newly acquired fame they have lost rather than gained.

Too obvious in their own interests they antagonized all who admired their husbands more, and dimmed themselves—out!

A Partnership of Long Ago Is Recalled

As Lillian said that there were not as many hates as lively as that with which she had been "favored" by Tom Morton, her face was as tranquil, as devoid of emotion, as if she were discussing the price of potatoes instead of the rancor which that thorough-going scoundrel, her dead husband, had held against her. But the next instant the calm of her face was broken, and with agitation such as I rarely had seen her display, she exclaimed:

"I have it now!—the key—there is something valuable or incriminating in that box and Sam Brixton knows it!"

There was that in her voice which made me feel sure that she had not revealed all she knew of the long ago business association between her dead husband, Tom Morton, and his partner, Samuel Brixton, who, after so many years, had come back into her life.

I had long suspected that the partnership between the two men involved transactions which would not bear the light—publicity—to put it mildly. But I knew also that Lillian, with reason, so loathed the memory of Marion's father who for so many years had cruelly kept the child away from her, the while he permitted Lillian's name to be blackened unjustly before all her world, that she was unwilling to go back even in memory to that time.

But danger involving Marion, which I knew intuitively she now sensed, would loosen her inhibitions, and bring forth from that past limbo of forgotten things, the whole sordid story.

First, however, she must know what I had to tell her.

"You will have to know," summoning my resolution, "the reason why Marion brought the box to me when she went away."

"I will spare you that," Lillian said with a wry little smile. "I can guess. It was because she was determined it should not fall into Harry's hands, n'est-ce pas?"

I flushed in acknowledgment of her shrewd guess, and she smiled reassuringly at me.

"Thank Heaven! That part of it is over," she said. "I don't believe there is even a trace left in Marion's mind or heart of that old jealous resentment against Harry."

"I know there isn't," I reassured her quickly. "If all fathers had as devoted daughters as Marion's stepfather has in her, there would be many happier men in the world."

"Granted that," Lillian answered. "Then you are the only one who has seen that box since Marion gave it to you."

"I am sure that no one except my father has seen it," I said. "Do you remember the attempted robbery we had at the farmhouse almost a year ago?"

"You told me there was one," she replied. "Do you mean—?"

"Yes. Father believes that the marauders were in search of the box. They tore the contents of Marion's room to pieces, but we let you all believe that is was because that room is easy of entrance from the outside. But late developments have made us sure that they selected the room deliberately and searched it for the box. They were driven off before they had time to get to any other room, and as the box was locked deep in my trunk, it escaped them."

"May I infer?" Lillian said with a grim little smile, "that it is not still deep in your trunk?"

"Your inference is eminently correct," I quoted with an answering smile. "We took it to the safety deposit vault the next day, where it still is."

"Did Marion show you the contents of the box?" she asked next, and I hesitated, remembering the solemnity with which Marion had invested the surrender of her "fortune" to me. Then I salved my conscience and hardened my resolution with the remembrance that the young girl herself had violated the compact she had made with me that no one else should know of the box, and had told her "roomie" Carolyn Brixton, about it.

"Yes—and no—" I answered slowly. "Did you know that the box had a secret compartment?"

"No, I never saw the inside of it."

"Well! It has one," I said, "and Marion showed me how the top of the box lifted off, revealing a secret compartment beneath. She also showed me the three large manila envelopes which were crowded into the recess. Two of them evidently contained papers, while the third held several objects hard and knobby. Marion said that her grandmother had told her not to open them until she was 18 years old, and that she was always to guard them most carefully, because they were her 'fortune'."

"Something hard and knobby," Lillian repeated slowly and into her eyes there flashed a sudden look of understanding. I knew that there had come to her some conjecture or theory concerning the contents of that third envelope which she was not yet ready to voice.

The Beauty Box

Before applying mascara to the eyebrows to darken them, put on a small quantity of vaseline. The eye lamberquins will then not only have a darker color, but will sport a beautiful luster, which makes them attractive, keeps the individual hairs in alignment.

Women who take prolonged hot baths for the purpose of reducing will get better results if they finish up with a cold shower. Heat is weakening, sweating burns up muscles as well as fat. A cold bath following the hot one keeps tissues from becoming soft. No sense in getting rid of adipose accumulations if flesh is to be flabby and saggy.

Knife pleated throats are tragic afflictions. They call for massage with a heavy cream and the palms of the hands, stroking from shoulder blades upward. Follow with a heavy tapping to rouse the fibers of the skin. Witch hazel should be used, it is a skin tightener. Hold up the chin. Place the clasped hands behind the head and turn the head slowly.

How to Keep Well

The Value of Surgery in Infancy

A very common deformity seen at birth is that condition known as the harelip. This congenital deformity is usually accompanied by a cleft palate. There has been a delay in the union of the palate and of the lip, so that a middle cleft or space exists. This defect is of importance, not only from a cosmetic point of view, but because the deformity may interfere seriously with the nutrition of the infant. The feedings are taken with difficulty if at all.

Dr. Copeland

As a rule, the defect may be corrected by surgical measures. The opening can be closed and, although there is a persisting scar and some deformity, function of the mouth is brought to normal.

There has been much dispute as to when the operation should be performed. It is generally agreed now that a cleft palate should not be operated upon until the child has reached the age of six months. On the other hand, the operation for harelip is recommended in early infancy.

The third to sixth month, or even earlier, may be the time of choice. This is particularly important if the deformed lip interferes with the proper nutrition of the child.

Even though children with this deformity cannot nurse from the breast they may be able to take milk from the bottle. Sometimes it is necessary to pour milk into the child's mouth from a teaspoon. The feeding may also be accomplished by the passage of a soft rubber tube into the gullet.

Since it is important that the nutrition of the infant be maintained you can see why the operation should be done as soon as possible. Your doctor will advise you about this.

The operation is not a difficult one and the results obtained are very gratifying. The operation may be done with the use of a very small amount of chloroform.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Addressing Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to be married in a different state from the one in which I live. What would follow on the wedding announcement after the date and year—that is, the name of which state, where I live, or where I am to be married?

2. About the address. I have been told that Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones does not appear on the outside envelope, but Mrs. J. Jones; then Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones on the inside envelope. Is this correct?

Kindly tell me how to address the wedding announcement and I will be deeply grateful. READER.

1. On the marriage announcement, the name of the place in which the marriage takes place is engraved. This is the correct form:

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Hall have the honor of announcing the marriage of their daughter Mary
to
Mr. Walter Turnbull Wells on Tuesday, the first of September
Nineteen hundred and thirty-one
New York

2. On the outside envelope write:

Mr. and Mrs. John Allington
Jones

The inside envelope reads:

Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

Lettuce and Knives

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We were on a train en route to a distant state and one of us started to cut her lettuce with a knife, saying that it was very difficult to cut it with a fork and keep it on her plate. One of the others said that it was correct to cut your lettuce with a knife. Which one is correct?

2. Another question: This one is about my letter paper and writing. Will you please give your suggestions for its improvement. H.

1. It is perfectly proper, and perfectly sensible to cut your lettuce with a knife and fork. Indeed now, in practically all patterns of silver, sterling and plate, you will find that you will be offered salad knives, as well as salad forks. Thank Heaven for that. For, what with this iceberg lettuce and these difficult-to-manage salad ingredients, such as slices or rounds of pineapple, or stiff stalks of endive, or quarters of tomatoes, we certainly find use, definite use, for the salad knife.

2. Your letter is in especially fine form, both as to letter paper, which is dignified and, in good size for your handwriting, and as to letter form. It is a joy not to have any abbreviations, and to have every detail proudly done. And such fine handwriting, too!

For little stomachs with too much acid

Children are especially subject to the ills of excess acid. Sour stomach, biliousness, lack of spirits, etc., are usually the result. Quickly corrected by pleasant tasting

BRIOSCHI
(Pronounced Bree-osky)

All children like its fizzy just sweet enough taste. Quickly neutralizes the acid condition and is gently laxative, cleansing the delicate system of impurities. Give your children Brioschi. They'll like it and the results of too much acid will never trouble them.

The $2,000 in Cash Prizes Will Be Divided Into Two Classes—$1,000 in Each Class

Double awards will be paid to entrants in the winning list who have secured and submitted one NEW six months' Home Delivery or paid-in-advance Mail Subscription.

There is an open class in which $1,000.00 is to be given away in prizes, irrespective of the subscription angle. Should, however, your set of answers be selected as one of the winning sets, and you have turned in a NEW subscription, you will get a DOUBLE AWARD. This means that if you win the first prize—$200.00—and have turned in a NEW subscription, you will be paid $400.00—the DOUBLE AWARD. And the same ratio will apply to the entire 135 cash awards announced in the list. If you are qualifying for the DOUBLE AWARD list of prizes send in your subscription immediately.

Bear in mind that $1,000.00 will be given away at the end of the contest—subscriptions or no subscriptions. Don't miss this opportunity to earn some much needed cash.

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES

(1) Under the title, "Fiction Title Test," the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph will publish a series of cartoons to run consecutively for 40 days, starting Sunday, July 12. All of these cartoons will represent the title of a popular novel, and prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the neatest, most original and most nearly correct sets of pictures and answers.

(2) A total of $1,000 in cash prizes will be awarded in an open class and an added $1,000 is also offered to be drawn upon to provide for double awards to entrants turning in one NEW six months' home delivery or mail subscription order for the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

(3) This offer is open to all except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families. You pay nothing. Files of the Sun-Telegraph are available at the Public Library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, and you may make tracings of the cartoons if you desire.

(4) Answers in the contest are not to be submitted until the entire set of 40 has been printed. After the last (No. 40) cartoon has appeared, entrants will be allowed 15 days to submit their sets of answers. They are to be addressed to the "Fiction Title Test" Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(5) All answers submitted become the property of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and none will be returned. The judges will be appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

Mickey Walker and Manager Jack Kearns, in Talking Pictures, Telling How He'll Beat Jack Sharkey

PHOTOS Copyright, 1931, by International Newsreel

NOW, DO AS I TELL YOU AND YOU'LL BE ANOTHER JACK DEMPSEY

Mickey Walker, resigned middleweight champion, who wants to fight Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight crown, gets his first real test as a big fellow tonight, when he boxes Jack Sharkey in a 15-rounder for the benefit of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Interest in the bout has been worked up to a high pitch and it looks like the big heavyweight match of the year in the East. Sharkey is the favorite because of his size and weight, but Manager Kearns, who piloted Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight title, has succeeded in selling Mickey as a heavyweight title threat and illustrates his confidence in the pictures above. Sharkey will outweigh Walker by some 30 pounds.

EX-GOB APPEARS TO OUTCLASS WALKER

IF TWENTY GRAND can be defeated in the face of a ton of dope in his favor, so can Jack Sharkey. If the English tennis team can overcome seemingly hopeless odds and beat an apparently superior opponent, so can Mickey Walker. There are no sure things in sports these days, and the longest shot has got to be conceded a chance. But as far as paper form may be trusted, or natural advantages may be figured as likely to have a determining influence, Sharkey looks like a probable and decisive winner over Walker in tonight's fight at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

Jack Sharkey

Size ought to be the deciding factor, as it generally is when fistic qualities are equal. Sharkey will have the tremendous advantage of 30 pounds in weight and six inches in height and reach. Add to that the fact that he is a more skillful boxer, just as fast, more versatile in style, more than two years younger, a stronger puncher by reason of his greater heft, and longer on stamina as a result of cleaner living, and it is hard to see how he can lose, even allowing for his old habit of pulling something stupid at a critical stage.

WALKER IS A REAL fighter. Nobody can take that away from him. He has been the world's best around his weight, and a physical marvel in view of the fact that he is apparently as good as ever despite a fondness for the bright lights that would have ended the career of the average battler long ago. But it's one thing for a middleweight to beat a man of his own poundage, and it's quite another thing for him to beat a first-class heavyweight.

The biggest men whom Mickey defeated were far from being Sharkeys. The only one of any standing was K. O. Christner, and that bout left a bad odor. When he tackled larger opponents of the ability of Harry Greb or Tommy Loughran, Walker only took a beating. As he will face in Sharkey an even bigger foeman than he met in Greb or Loughran, it is difficult to figure how the result can be different.

WALKER OWNS JUST one thing which Sharkey doesn't possess, and that is bulldog spirit, the will to win by keeping up the fight no matter how rough the going becomes. It can hardly be said that Sharkey is afraid of physical punishment, but his work sometimes is affected by fear of defeat, or fear of the crowd, or something of that sort.

With the advantage he holds over Walker, however, the former gob ought to feel sufficiently sure of himself to keep his head, for once, and that appears to be the only thing necessary to enable him to stop Walker inside the limit. Sharkey ought to win by a knockout.

THAT THERE HAS been nothing fluky about the rise of the Robins, here for six games in four days with the Pirates after hanging up their fiftieth victory of the season in Chicago yesterday and their twenty-fourth win in their last 33 engagements, is shown by the fact that they have made their greatest gains against the stronger clubs of the league. Against the three other first-division outfits—the Cardinals, Giants and Cubs—the Flatbush ballers have won 25 games and lost only 16, a percentage of .610, while against the four second-division teams they have done little better than break even, winning 25 and losing 23 for a percentage of .521. The Robins have won the majority of their games with every club in the circuit except the Braves, to whom they have dropped 9 out of 14.*

JOE CRONIN, former Pirate shortstopping for the Senators, who was voted the most valuable player in the American League last year, can't understand the cause of the slump in which he has been floundering, but says he means to fight it off by staying in the game. He has made only one hit in the last four contests.

Joe Cronin

"I haven't been at my best for nearly a month and I can't figure the trouble," Cronin says. "What hurts me more than anything else is that I feel I'm hindering the club. But I'm not going to give up and take a layoff. Maybe I'd be even worse when I got back. No, sir, I'll stick in the game and fight it out if it is left to me." Manager Walter Johnson agrees it would be better for Cronin to remain in the game. "The boy has the spirit to win this fight," he says, "and I'm sure he'll be giving us a great game of ball once more within a short time."

WAITE HOYT has won more games for the A's since joining them July 3 than he won for the Tigers in almost two months previously. In four starts for the Mackmen he has been victorious every time, though Earnshaw had to help him yesterday. His earlier Detroit record showed only three wins against eight defeats.

Other American League clubs can blame only themselves for any added strength that Hoyt has given to the Athletics, as all the rest waived on him before the White Elephants, holding first place in the race, had a chance to claim him.

THE INDIANS WILL have one of the finest baseball plants in the country when they move to the new Cleveland Stadium next year. The foul lines in both left and right fields will be 320 feet long, and the distance from home plate to the center field seats*

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—If Mickey Walker beats Jack Sharkey in Brooklyn's baseball park tonight, quite a few leading New York boxing experts will go down with the Boston Tar. Practically all of the writers today picked Sharkey to win.

Twelve experts predicted a Sharkey victory and seven said Jack would win by a kayo. One bold gentleman picked Sharkey to win by a knockout in four rounds.

The betting odds are 2½ to 1 on Sharkey to win and there is comparatively little wagering, but everybody expects it to be a good fight while it lasts. The men will enter the ring at approximately 9 o'clock, eastern daylight saving time, and there will be no radio broadcast.

Sharkey is expected to have a weight advantage of approximately 30 pounds.

Seats sell for from $2.10 for general admission to $15.75, and there is room for 52,000 of the faithful. The show is for the benefit of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: "CALIFORNIA" TAYLOR'S BEARD—William Taylor, an American Methodist Bishop (1821-1902), who later was elected Bishop of Africa, is described as the greatest missionary of modern times. He carried the cross to every part of the inhabited globe. Both physically and spiritually, he was a giant among his associates. His cognomen of "California" refers to his missionary activities in that state. There was a note of religious humility in his personal attire, and he was wont to refer to his luxurious beard as a substitute for a shirt.

Time of first game—2 o'clock.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Half the week is almost done with no baseball in the Oakland Orchard, but the Pirates and Robins will try to make up for some of the lost play this afternoon as they clash in a doubleheader. The bargain attraction is slated to get under way at 2 o'clock.

The Flatbush Flock, headed by Uncle Robbie, was a merry group of athletes as it invaded Pittsburgh this morning. The Brooklyn team has a much different complexion as compared with the club that came here for its first showing several weeks ago. As a result of their consistent pace of the past month, Uncle Robbie's entry is in second place, and it has even higher aspirations.

WRIGHT OUT

The visitors, however, may be seriously handicapped in the big competition if Glenn Wright remains long out of their lineup. The former Pirate shortstop is afflicted with a leg injury. He is highly important in the pennant schemes of the Flatbush club.

Manager Ens stated this morning he had any number of pitchers ready for the Robins, but in making his selections he will be guided by the type of sharpshooter sent out by the rival leader. Jewel is anxious to get Erv Brame's big bat in action, but he will hold Erv off the mound in the event that Uncle Robbie calls upon two left-handers. Larry French is almost sure to pitch in one game and Remy Kremer is likely to be on the mound in the other if Brame rests.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—I see John McGraw got a three-day suspension for a run-in with umpires. Well, if I was to say what I thought of this year's umps I would get a two weeks' vacation without pay.

Nick Altrock

The way they have been pulling decisions this season, most of those guys would rather be wrong than president of the league. I have seen a few specimens that had everything from astigmatism to eczema, but still thought they were umpires because they had a blue serge suit.

I wish I knew what McGraw said to the umps on St. Louis, because I'd like to expand it from a few brief remarks to a full-length novel.

CARDS AFTER ELMIRA

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 22.—(AP.)—Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals, is expected here today to decide whether the Elmira franchise, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, shall be acquired by the Cardinals as another baseball farm. The Elmira franchise was forfeited last week when the owners of the team reported that they were $26,000 in debt.

COHN REACHES QUARTER-FINAL

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Va., July 22.—(AP.)—Sam Cohn, of Beckley, winner of the 1931 state closed tournament, was the first to go into the quarter finals of the West Virginia state open tennis tournament yesterday as he downed Alexander Keiles, of Baltimore, 7-5, 7-5, in the men's singles. The match was played in a light shower.

The singles matches are to continue today when the doubles also will start. The tempo of the tournament thus far has been rather slow, but is expected to speed up as the eliminations continue and the seeded players meet in the semi-finals.

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—An injunction granted Madison Square Garden, of Illinois, restraining Primo Carnera from fighting Jack Sharkey for a rival promoter was upheld yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

HELEN MOODY NEARS FINAL

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 22.—(AP.)—Seven of the nation's first 10 women tennis players and the unranked Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, gained the quarter-finals in the Essex Country Club's tourney yesterday.

Mrs. Moody defeated Mrs. Ary Lamme, New York, for a 6-1, 6-3 victory, and caught up with the fourth round winners by overcoming Charlottee Miller, New York, 6-1, 6-2, yesterday.

JUNIOR GOLF VICTORS RECEIVE PRIZES

SIMPSON GETS HEARST LINKS TROPHY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The fourth chapter in the history of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's junior amateur golf tournament play is closed. Last night, at a most successful dinner the winners of prizes in the big William Randolph Hearst event, staged at the Schenley Park municipal links June 3, received their awards from the honor guest, John Jay Burke, in Webster Hall Hotel.

Walter Simpson, 17-year-old Washington County Golf and Country Club caddie who recorded a par 66 in the tourney, was presented the beautiful William Randolph Hearst trophy, which is to go on display at the Washington club; a set of five matched steel-shafted irons, and a solid gold medal.

RONIE GETS DRIVER

Alec Ronie, of Castle Shannon, received a steel-shafted driver and two gold medals, one for his efforts in winning second place in individual play and a second for his play as a member of the Castle Shannon team, which copped the club caddie team championship plaque with an aggregate of 294 strokes.

Two prize winners were not present. Frank Podmilsak, Chartiers Heights caddie who won the third place playoff, and Dave Wilson, Stanton Heights bag-toter, who copped the fourth place playoff, and their awards are being forwarded to them. Podmilsak received an iron club and a silver medal, and Wilson a bronze medal.

John Pecovich, August Buckey and John Kletch were the other members of the Castle Shannon team to receive gold medals, while, in behalf of his club, Dave Clarke, professional at Castle Shannon, received the beautiful caddie team plaque.

Four boys on the runner-up Beaver Valley caddie team, Winston Wertz, Al Nesbitt, Sam Nalesnik and Arthur Zubrawski, received silver medals.

BURKE OFFERS ADVICE

In his main address of the evening, John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County parks, spoke highly of the advancement of the tourney, praised the rise of public links golf and paid high tribute to William Randolph Hearst for encouraging junior golf. He told of the inception of the national public links championship, the beauty and wonders of the Allegheny County parks with their two finest public links in the country, and congratulated and offered fatherly advice to the prize-winners.

Carl F. Kauffmann, three-times national public links champion, admonished the boys that they were expected to sacrifice much if they intended to follow golf as a career. His interesting speech urged the boys to study and become more familiar with the rules of golf, and to fight to keep their place when they reached the top of the heap.

KECK IS SPEAKER

Harry Keck, sporting editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, covered the realm of sports, pointing out the advantages of competition among the youth of the land in making them into better citizens and preparing them for the battles in life.

Other speakers of the evening included S. Walter Phillips, of the arbitration committee, who showed how fair and square the event was conducted; Jess Carver, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports staff; A. R. S. Pollock, chairman of the green committee of the Washington County Golf and Country Club, who was proud of the showing of the boys from his club, and Jimmy Conrad, caddiemaster at the South Park county links, who also provided splendid entertainment.

Among the guests were F. Huck, caddiemaster at the Beaver Valley Country Club; Bill Stocker, caddiemaster at the Stanton Heights Golf Club; Andy Petrolia, caddiemaster at Schenley Park; Frank Petrolia and Tom O'Keefe, of Schenley Park; Lee Moran and Miss Kay Donovan, of Schenley; J. P. Shaw and Mr. Titlow, of Washington, Pa.; Tommy McDonough, of Schenley; two former Hearst champions, Joe Curto, who won in 1928, and Joe Stevenson, who copped in 1929, and members of the sporting department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Vern Swartsfager was master of ceremonies.

to work behind Lefthander Joe Shaute in one of the battles. The former Cleveland star was picked up by Uncle Robbie when everybody else was giving Joe the "gate" and the veteran has more than repaid Robbie's kindness by his brilliant slab efforts. Either Dolf Luque or Dazzy Vance is due to go to the firing line in the other contest. Vance has had three days of rest since he faced the Cubs and it may be he will take another day of relaxation before he challenges the Buccos.

Two games scheduled with the Braves for Monday and yesterday were called off by the home management on account of rain. The canceled contests have been moved back to September 18 and 19 when they will serve to make up double bills.

Howdy Groskloss, limping secondsacker of the Pirates, has now enjoyed four complete days of rest, and it is likely the Sheraden phenom will be back at his post today. Ens will be especially in need of his services when the southpaws operate, as the lefthanders generally make a mess out of our nine when the regular southpaw hitters are in action. Groskloss, however, is effective against all kinds of pitching and his presence at second has given the Buccos a much smoother team play.

Ernest Guthrie vs. Les Kennedy, 10 rounds, Oakland, Cal.

Doc Snell vs. Wild Cat Carter, 6 rounds, Seattle.

CENTER TENNIS PLAY OPENS

Nearly two score youthful racqueters of the Steel City area squared off today in opening rounds of the annual Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' tennis championships on the clay courts of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

With trips to the national junior and boys' event at Culver Military Academy looming as prizes for title-captors in the bi-divisional contesting, entry lists in both sections are large, 22 lads seeking to assume the throne vacated by Frank Broida, Harvard ace, in the 18-year-old group, while an even dozen youngsters will compete for the laurels to be defended by Harold Mathieson, husky Koppel satellite, in the milling for 15-year-olds.

The pairings:

JUNIOR SINGLES

First round—H. C. Link vs. Duane Littel; W. H. Smith vs. George Phillips; Robert Wilson vs. Bud Leyda; Henry Ackerman vs. Robert Runser; William Reynolds vs. Harold Hatch; Emerson Hess vs. Clarence Todt.

BOYS' SINGLES

First round—Lawrence Blatt vs. Bernard Greenberg; Everett Reich vs. Irwin Solow; Donald Hatch vs. John Burke; Ralph Bald vs. Harold Mathieson.

Second round—William McAdams vs. Edward Ferrick; Paul McArdle vs. Robert McMorran.

PROS IN TEST TONIGHT

Leading professional golfers of the district are scheduled to compete tonight in the Western Pennsylvania pro driving tournament at the Bob-O-Link driving range, Aspinwall. The affair will get under way at 9:30. The range will be illuminated by flood lights.

Following are the pros who will compete, in order of their appearance: Fred Onoretta, Mike Lipchick, Francis McNamara, J. Wittingham, J. Somers, Vincent Eldred, Paul Erath, Dale Zimmermann, Emil Loeffler, Bert Myers, George McBride, J. Stewart, J. McFarland, Al McBride, Dave Clark, Perry Del Vecchio, G. Paroline, Wayne Tobias, Walter Loeffler, J. Devlin, Bert Rowe, R. Johnston, H. Olsen, Nelson Zimmerman, Dave McCabe, Bob Graham, Jock Kennedy, Pete O'Hara, Willie McKay, J. Ludes, Ed Onoretta, M. Swan, Fiore Bruno, J. Carroll, Walter Johnstone, Tom Bennett, Julius Platt.

Between Rounds

Charley Kolb, local business man and former manager of boxers, writes from Mickey Walker's training camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., that he is taking a flier on Mickey to win his battle with Jack Sharkey for Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund in Brooklyn tonight. Although all of the natural advantages are with the former man, Kolb, who has been close to Walker, believes Mickey's fighting heart will prove the determining factor.

The latest tip in Philadelphia is that William J. Friehofer, wealthy head of a baking concern and sportsman, is to be named the Philadelphia member of the State Athletic Commission. Friehofer is chairman of the boxing and wrestling committee of the Penn A. C. and popular.

Tonight's fight with Mickey Walker will be the first for Jack Sharkey since he lost on a foul to Max Schmeling in New York more than a year ago, yet he will enter the ring a well-backed choice to win. Mickey has been known to be a terror against slow-moving heavyweights, but Sharkey has the speed and class and punch to bring himself home in front—if he only will.

The amateur bouts scheduled at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. last night and postponed because of rain have been regarded for tonight.

BELMONT GOES FISHING AS BIDS WAIT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, is going to rest for a few weeks on the laurels of his technical knockout victory over Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, his arch-rival, at the Meyers Bowl, Monday night. He leaves today with his manager, Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, on a fishing trip near Ligonier.

Belmont is in shape to enter the ring again on a few days' notice, but Klaus has decided to sit back and look over the field and consider offers that are pouring in before making any more matches for him. The Bowl wants a return bout for Jimmy with McTiernan and also wants to send him against the winner of its Ted Yarosz-Bucky Lawless bout next Monday night. Hickey Park wants him against Donald Fagg or some other good opponent, and Klaus has a chance to take him East. Both Tom McArdle, New York Madison Square Garden matchmaker, and Eddie Mack, of Boston, long-time friends of Frank, have assured him they will be glad to put on Jimmy any time Klaus thinks he is ready to be cut loose in their arenas.

M'TIERNAN MAY REST

While Belmont was enjoying the fruits of his victory yesterday, McTiernan, who had a big lead until he was clipped with the knockout blow, was bitterly mulling over the battle in his mind and calling himself a chump and worse for letting himself be the victim of a one-punch finish. His plans are indefinite. He would like nothing better than a return bout with Belmont at once, but his manager, Bunny Buntach, instead may order him to rest up prior to making a fresh start.

Incidentally, the result of the bout goes into the records as a full-fledged knockout for Belmont, on the strength of a statement by Referee Al Grayber that he counted out McTiernan. The pictures of the fight show that McTiernan was up and moving groggily toward Belmont, with Grayber closing in on him to stop the bout, and ringsiders commented on the fact that Buck, after having been stretched face downward, was able to get up in time to beat the count. The knockdown timer also halted his count at nine, but it's an official knockout nevertheless, in view of the fact that the referee's decision in such matters is final.

DAVIES-THOMAS NEXT

With the McTiernan-Belmont battle out of the way and the atmosphere somewhat cleared, the fans are beginning to pay some attention to that other local "natural" carded at Hickey Park tomorrow night, with Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Jimmy Thomas, young Negro bantamweight, of the Hill, in the main bout. Their recent good bout in the same arena, in which Thomas received the referee's decision, which was disputed by many of the fans, still is fresh in memory, and the repeat battle ought to draw a good-sized crowd.

ARLINGTON PARK MUTUELS

CHICAGO, July 22.—(Special.)—The mutuels on the seven races at the Arlington Park track yesterday paid a total of $321.02.

PROTEST TURNED DOWN

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—(A.P.)—Representatives of clubs in the International League have approved the actions of President Charles H. Knapp in rejecting Newark's protest of the game won by Baltimore on July 1. The protest was rejected because it was filed after the game instead of during it, the president said.

LUTHER WINS PRO TOURNEY

CONNEAUT LAKE, July 23.—There was a no more surprised man on the course than Ted Luther, Corry professional and West Penn open champion, when he was informed yesterday afternoon that his 294 was good enough to tie Jack Thompson, Youngstown, for first money in the Oakland Beach professional golf tournament and that a playoff would be necessary.

He cut the extra treat for the fans brief by winning the first hole and the title.

Thompson took an 82 after entering the last night holes with a lead of five strokes, and Luther, who thought he might finish as good as third, got the break which he capitalized to win.

PUBLIC PARKS NET ENTRIES CLOSE TONIGHT

116 IN FOLD FOR SUN-TELE TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Thirty-seven new entries, arriving yesterday in the sanctum of the Tournament Editor, boosted the total host of participants in the second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh public parks tennis championships well past the century notch. With today's and tomorrow's mail still to be accounted for, precisely 116 municipal racquet performers stand aligned to begin action on the courts of Schenley, Highland, Olympia, Frick, Riverview and West Parks here next Monday in quest of titular honors and the numerous coveted awards—including two trips to the National Public Parks championships at Detroit the week of August 7—that await victorious contestants.

TO SET DRAW SOON

Midnight tonight is the deadline for forwarding entrance blanks for the parks milling. Envelopes containing last-minute entries must be postmarked before the zero hour and delivered at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph office no later than tomorrow afternoon, if the enclosures are to be accorded consideration in the drawings for the preliminary competition in the individual parks. Pairings for actual jousting will be published within a day or so.

More than half a dozen contenders of promise and prominence were among the Tuesday arrivals. Ralph Beilstein, runner-up to his brother Karl at West Park a year ago, again will go in for fraternal strife and seek the lower North Side medallion. Bill Creighton, former St. Mary's-of-the-Mount High School ace, is a most formidable Olympia aspirant just lined up, while out at Highland Carl Link, junior luminary, and Bill Corsherhausen, Tartan freshman star, have joined the ranks.

Mrs. Caroline Kurtz, Mt. Washington feminine satellite, will battle for Olympian women's laurels against the expert opposition of the defending inter-parks premiere, Mrs. Jean Artzberger.

LAST ENTRY BLANK

Mail or bring entries to the Public Parks Tennis Tournament Editor, in care of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Names will not be taken by telephone. The official entry blank, printed tonight for the last time, will be found on a sports page and must be used in all cases.

The list of yesterday's entries:

P. J. McArdle, Jr., Olympia; William J. Creighton, Olympia; Raymond Gray, Olympia; Richard Kurtz, Olympia; Mrs. Caroline Kurtz, Olympia; Mary Creighton, Olympia; Ralph F. Beilstein, West; Raymond A. Cooper, West; Arthur W. Swaidner, West; James F. O'Connor, Frick; Thomas O'Connor, Frick; Richard Young, Riverview; E. J. Plunkett, Riverview; Robert Stinson, Riverview; Pat Moran, Riverview; Frances Stephen, Riverview; Harry Wald, Schenley; H. P. Malasky, Schenley; Leonard Sherer, Schenley; R. W. Breen, Schenley; James Khalil, Schenley; Rose Bollinger, Highland; William Corsherhausen, Highland; Robert Klaus, Frick; James B. Johnston, Jr., Frick; John Smeaton, Frick; William McAdams, Frick; Marcus Pergament, Frick; L. Anthony Klaus, Frick; George Sobel, Frick; Carl Dapprich, Frick; Edward Oetting, Frick; K. E. Luther, Frick; George Edward French, Frick; H. Carl Link, Highland; John V. McClymonds, Highland; George Philipp, Olympia.

Fight Results

At St. Louis—Dave Knost knocked out Big Boy Peterson, 3 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Jackie Brady defeated Jackie Purvis, 10 rounds; Willar Brown defeated Jimmy Neal, 8 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Alfredo Gaona and Tommy Herman drew, 10 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Buster Brown-Sid Silla bout called off, rain.

At Jersey City—Jack (Kid) Berg-Teddy Watson bout postponed until Friday night, rain.

At Rochester, N. Y.—Primo Carnera-Knute Hansen bout postponed until Friday night, rain.

At New York—Ben Jeby-Ignacio Ara bout postponed until Friday night, rain.

At Harrington, Del.—Sylvan Lass defeated Young Ketchel, 8 rounds; Young Gordon defeated Spike Hemlock, 6 rounds; Battling Dixon knockout out Sammy Sylvester, 2 rounds; Pete DeBrank defeated Mickey Gorman, 6 rounds; Hen Criley defeated Benny Lopinski, 6 rounds.

At Leiperville, Pa.—Johnny Scarpone knocked out Jimmy Carroll, 3 rounds; Paulie Brown defeated Coni Breeze, 4 rounds.

RECORD FIELDS PLAY TODAY

Two record fields are playing in the Western Pennsylvania junior golf championship, under the auspices of the W. P. G. A., at the Alcoma Country Club, and in the Pennsylvania Golf Association one-day medal play handicap tourney, at the Edgewood Country Club, today.

The juniors are stepping out at 36 holes to qualify for the titular flight in the battle for Regis Wolfe's undefended throne, while the men at Edgewood started play at 8:45 this morning, and the last players won't finish their 18-hole test until night falls, the last competitors slated to get away at 5:32 this afternoon.

The first tournament of the Reliance Life Employes' Association is scheduled for this afternoon at the St. Clair Country Club. A second tourney will be an event of September, when awards for both affairs will be made.

HUNTINGTON WINS TWO

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 22.—Although three other Middle Atlantic League games were rained out yesterday, Huntington came through with a pair of victories over Charleroi here yesterday.

In the first encounter Charleroi lost, 4-2, and in the second it was beaten, 5-2.

Beckley swamped Wheeling, 17-5, at Beckley, in the only other contest.

ST. JOACHIM BOOKING

The St. Joachim club, of the West Penn League, wants to book with first-class attractions in the tri-State district. The Saints have been going at a sensational clip. Managers should call Mike Kudrau, Atlantic 8451.

SANDLOTTERS RAINED OUT

By TOM BIRKS

Rained out again—that was the sad story for sandlotters last evening, and the fans again will have to hear the seventh episode trying to get the Reliance Life-Homestead Aces championship game played.

The Community Builders are bound for town, and the Turtle Creek aggregation has the satisfaction of bumping into Zigelotti, rated as one of the best pitchers on the sandlots.

The Homestead Aces were scheduled this evening with the St. Joachim's nine, but Moultrie Park is definitely out of the question this season, and Manager Mike Kudrau has arranged for Tuesday night play at Magee Field.

The East End Cardinals, first half champions of the Steel City League, swing into action in their opening game of the second half at the Homewood playgrounds. The Penn Club, of Wilkinsburg, will be the attraction.

The Mifflin club travels to Marshall Field to meet the O'Malleys, and the Lawrenceville club, also a new member in the loop, takes the place of the Brodericks.

Two other new clubs swing into action this evening. Speer, of the West End, travels to Pleasant Valley to meet the Oliver Cubs.

Homewood's chances in the second half of the City loop depends upon what they do this evening against Dormont.

FLAGSTEAD OUT

PORTLAND, Ore., July 22.—(AP.)—The Portland club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League has handed unconditional releases to Gorham Laverette, right-hand pitcher, and Ira Flagstead, outfielder.

LEE HANLEY RELEASED

ST. PAUL, July 22.—(AP.)—Lee Hanley, former Northwestern University football star, was given his outright release by the Indianapolis club of the American Association yesterday. Hanley is an outfielder.

Schenley Matinee Club Races Today

The Schenley Matinee Club will entertain with five races at Schenley Oval this afternoon. Winners in previous races are to be opposed, and some exceptionally keen competition is expected.

Long's Sport Comment

will be 450 feet. Conditions will be better for right-hand hitters than at the present grounds of the Indians. Players will go direct from the dressing rooms to the dugouts through tunnels. Umpires can flee angry fans the same way. The scoreboard will be the last word, with illuminated figures on balls and strikes, numbers of the players, outs and running score.

ANOTHER FULL GAME added to the lead of the Macks, and another prop knocked from under any chance the Senators ever may have had of overtaking them. That puts the A's eight jumps to the good. Spotting a club of their caliber eight games with only 64 to be played, and beating it out, just isn't done in baseball.

Even if the Pale Pachyderms should only break even in their remaining 64 games they would have 97 victories against 57 defeats for the season, and to beat them out it would be necessary for the Johnsons to win 41 of their remaining 64 contests, .641 ball or an average of almost two out of every three.

BASEBALL OF THE bygone surely is coming back. The suspension plastered on John McGraw for his verbal attack on Umpire Bob Clarke was the first drawn by the Giant manager in 10 years, and his subsequent row with John A. Heydler at Sportsmans Park in St. Louis was his first public breach with a league president since he criticized John K. Tener in the newspapers in 1917. Once before, this year, he had been ordered from the dugout by Umpire Dolly Stark.

John McGraw

McGraw, master showman and strategist, may have been merely aiming to spur baseball interest and stir up his club, which he has accused of lacking spirit, when he went after Clarke so vigorously, but there was no doubt he had reached the boiling point when he turned his guns on Heydler.

"A FINE THING you did!" McGraw shouted. "You're still backing up rotten umpires just as you backed up Klem in 1929 when he refused to allow interference on Reese in that game with the Cubs. Clarke is a rotten umpire and has been for two years, and you know it. Yet you suspend me on the word of an umpire who threatened my life. After Clarke had chased me he went over to George Burns and said, 'I'll kill him! I'll kill him!' Then he sent Burns out of the park, too. That's the sort of umpire you back up." Heydler says he investigated the charge that Clarke had threatened McGraw's life. "Clarke explained the matter satisfactorily," the league chief reports. "He said that when he had returned to his post near first base he said to Burns, 'If a man called me names like that away from the ball field I would kill him.' McGraw's remarks to me were only the sort of thing to be expected when he is kept off the bench for a few days. I am not going to take any further action against him because of his conduct."

Ideas Change

NEW ERA IDEAS CHANGE SINCE PANIC

Financial Judgment Still To Some Extent Warped By Emotions, Prejudices

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Since the panic, the country has gone far not only toward liquidating its securities, but also its "new era" delusions.

Yet those changes are relative only. Financial judgment is still warped by emotions, prejudices and superstitions.

For example, the expectation that the adjournment of Congress earlier in the year would soothe the nerves of harassed business and financial executives was unfulfilled by results. The business cycle continued on its course, and there was no evidence that the end of the congressional session had any effect. Accordingly, the undemocratic fears of those who are afraid of the popular legislative body proved unfounded.

Mr. Rukeyser

TARIFF FUTILE

Likewise, more than a year ago, several administration spokesmen indicated that getting the tariff issue out of the way would clear the business air and remove an important depressing influence. It was said that President Hoover was moved to sign the unscientific Hawley-Smoot bill in order to stimulate business by removing a cause for uncertainty and hesitation. My own opinion at the time was that such a gesture would prove futile, because no issue is settled until it is settled right.

Before the new tariff act was enacted, in the first half of 1930, the merchandise exports of the United States amounted to $2,076,000,000, compared with $1,316,000,000 in the first half of this year with the Hawley-Smoot law in effect. In May, Canada, America's most important customer, cut down her imports from the United States by 40 per cent, in connection with the Canadian reprisal tariff.

ON THE FENCE

Recently, Wall street has been on the fence concerning security prices, adjourning decisive opinions until tangible results were disclosed by the European conference at London. At least, this new international show, which is a phase of the attempted "managed recovery," has temporarily diverted folks from facts which led to excited liquidation. Uncured by previous instances of wrong emphasis, finance is again waiting on politics for leadership.

With the front pages focussed on the flight of capital from German securities, Fairman R. Dick, railroad banker in Wall street, has directed the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission to the recent domestic flight of investment capital from railroad securities.

WADDELL SEEKS 3 NILES MILLS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 22.—J. D. Waddell, of Niles, O., formerly vice president of the Empire Steel Corporation, Mansfield, now in receivership, is arranging to purchase, with a group of associates, the Waddell plant in Niles of the Empire company and perhaps the two other Niles properties of the defunct company.

All three of the Niles properties have been idle since the Empire company was forced into receivership. Waddell plans to form a company to operate the properties which are acquired.

1931 Russian Cotton Acreage Increased

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The Russian cotton acreage for 1931 is reported at 5,264,000 acres compared with the revised area of 3,855,000 acres last year, according to Agriculture Attache Steere at Berlin.

Large Interest in Radio Slowed Up to Await Decision on Suits

There is no doubt that the large interest always taken in Radio Corporation shares has died down pending decision on some important suits, particularly that brought by the government in connection with pooling of patents. If this suit was lost a floodgate of other suits would be loosened, in the opinion of some in the radio business, and segregation of patents to various companies in the pooling agreement would work for all sorts of trouble. In the meanwhile, the company is of the belief that it has a clear case, as the moves taken by it in the past have always been with the cognizance of the authorities. The suit is looked upon by many as a "clearing up" of a moot point rather than an attack on the corporation.

In the depressed times of the last 20 months it was natural that buying of clothes, especially by men, dropped tremendously. Like shoes, clothing can only last a limited time and must be replaced. Shoes are being replaced after a long period of dullness and now signs of replacement of clothing for men is apparent by active resumption of factories making such clothes. Probably 95 per cent of the clothing worn by men in this country is made partly of wool, and in these hard times domestic clothes will, in many cases, take the place of foreign materials on account of prices.

Not all the buying of International Telephone and Telegraph in the last couple of months can be ascribed to pool work. There has been a lot of replacement by those who sold the stock higher up and by others who consider the company has seen the worst. Certainly, the company has purged itself of all unnecessary expenses and is operating on an economical basis, which would have seemed impossible a couple of years ago. If business does not get any worse, the dividend will be maintained even if it is not quite earned in 1931. It is obvious that the management would not cut the dividend until forced to for it was the policy to finance every now and again with stock-giving "rights" rather than increasing the cash rate.

The principal change noted in this week's consolidated condition statement of member banks in principal cities reporting to the Federal Reserve, is the sharp contraction in investment holdings. The total of such investments was reduced by $71,000,000 in the week, of which $66,000,000 was accounted for by a drop in holdings of securities other than United States government issues. During the period which the statement covers foreign bonds, South Americans as well as Central European loans, were acutely weak. In the loan market it was shown that advances against security collateral had been curtailed by $35,000,000 to a new low for the move, while "all other" loans normally representing commercial borrowings increased $34,000,000, or just about enough to balance the drop in security advances in the total of all loans.

Of the market it can be said that for the present anyhow the line of "least resistance" is toward higher levels. Not a few people profess to believe that this indicated leaning is due to factors and influences beyond its own immediate technical condition. There is no denying, however, that the market so far as marginal holdings of stock are concerned, has been pretty thoroughly liquidated. The stock loan ratio of slightly above 2.9 per cent shows this to be so, yet the ratio of all loans to open market values of listed stocks is now roughly 15 per cent, as compared with 14.7 when loans and values were at their peaks in September, 1929. Thus, it is indicated, that the outlook for the market depends on the character of the news and the manner in which investors are moved to regard developments ahead.

The market, as the bulls see it, that is judging by the expression of opinion credited to one of the leading factors converted some weeks back from the bear side, is in a position to stage quite a celebration of any definite adjustment of the situation abroad. This operator holds to the belief, apparently, that another period of buoyancy, such as followed the Hoover debt moratorium proposal, may be witnessed in such event. But, once having had its fling on any such good news, he can visualize the market settling into a quiet trading affair, presumably realizing that thereafter the market would of necessity take its cue from developments in the field of domestic business and industry.

Sell Interests in Hat Chain Stores

NEW YORK, July 22.—Knox Hat Company and C. E. Anderson have sold their interests in the capital stock of the Long Clothing and Furnishings Company and the Long Hat Stores Corporation to Louis Gutterman, who operates a chain of furnishing shops known as the Knickerbocker Shops. The Long chains at the present time comprise 41 units.

STOCK MARKET DULL, PRICES SHRINK

Losses in Many Leading Shares Range From 1 to 5 Points; Steel Output Off

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—The pulse of the stock market was low, and its complexion pale, today.

While trading remained extremely dull, prices shrank steadily, losses ranging from 1 to 5 points in many of the principal shares. The list lost a sizable portion of its gradual advance of the past five sessions. The foreign markets also were weak, particularly Paris, and reports from the London conference were scarcely encouraging.

Wall street financial circles were generally coming to the view that little could be hoped from the London conference save sanction for the plan already in effect in New York and London, by which bankers are co-operating to maintain the volume of their short term credits in Germany. While speculative quarters have been inclined to hope for something more cheering, several leading bankers have held to this view for several days.

The weekly steel trade reviews were somewhat depressing, failing to bear out estimates yesterday that steel production had held about unchanged from the previous week. Both Iron Age and Steel, which last week estimated operations at 32 and 33 per cent of capacity, placed them this week at 30 per cent, a new low for the depression.

The weekly report of freight car loadings, usually out on Wednesday, was again deferred until Thursday.

News from the petroleum industry was encouraging. The American Petroleum Institute estimated that demand for gasoline in the second half of the year will show a gain of 3.7 per cent over 1930. Crude prices were restored to around 40 cents a barrel in the mid-continent, and the institute reported a decline of roughly 100,000 barrels in daily crude output last week, and further curtailment of gasoline stocks by about 1,000,000 barrels.

STEEL TRADE HOPEFUL

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say, in part:

So little is July falling off from June in respect to shipments that hopefulness of a decided turn for the better by September is spreading through the producing end of the steel industry. The operating rate for the whole country has dropped 2 points in the week, or to 30 per cent of ingot capacity, but the belief is now very general that present levels of output will continue through August without material change.

Reduced requirements of the automobile builders, the completion of rail contracts and the falling off in large gas and oil line projects account largely for the curtailment. The automobile industry will reach the low of the year in August, with a production expected not to exceed 173,000 cars.

The movement to stabilize prices gained by the wide adoption last week of a reduction of $1 a ton for bars, plates and shapes.

Primary materials are featured by further evidence of strength in scrap prices. At Pittsburgh heavy melting steel has advanced 25c a ton for the third consecutive week.

The Iron Age composite price for steel melting scrap has made the second advance since its 30-year low ($9.08) was reached late in June. It is now $9.25 a gross ton. The pig iron composite dropped 2c to $15.54, a new low since late 1915, and the finished steel composite has receded to 2.116c a pound from the 2.137c level held for three weeks.

Sao Paulo Coffee Stocks Reduced

RIO DE JANERIO, July 22.—Freight rates on coffee to New Orleans have been reduced to 30 cents from 40 cents.

The Institute De Cafe Do Sao Paulo estimates coffee stocks at interior warehouses and railways as of June 30 at 18,568,000 bags, against 19,163,000 bags on May 31. The figures include Minas Geraes.

East Texas Still Menaces Crude Oil Markets

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE REDUCTION OF 108,287 barrels in the daily average crude oil production of the United States last week was a favorable factor for the industry, but it does not represent any improvement in the critical production situation in the new fields in East Texas. The country's total output was 2,430,693 barrels a day.

The strike of producers in the Oklahoma City field was responsible for the entire decline in output. It appeared yesterday that these operators, who preferred the shutting down of wells to the sale of oil at recent low prices, had gained a victory. Refiners advanced quotations for crude in Oklahoma, Kansas and North Central Texas to 40 cents a barrel from recent quotations ranging from 10 to 22 cents a barrel.

Last week a drop of 115,255 barrels took place in the production of the Oklahoma City field alone. Increases were shown in many other districts. The output of crude in East Texas, center of the production difficulty, increased 27,286 barrels during the week to 408,825 barrels.

Proration Enforcement Difficult

THAT ATTEMPTS TO ENFORCE proration are not having easy sailing is apparent in several districts. In California output jumped 3,300 barrels last week. This does not appear to be a serious amount until it is realized that production in that area averaged 526,000 barrels last week in comparison with a quota of 487,500 barrels.

In Kettleman Hills average production was 81,500 barrels from 16 producers. This must be reduced 22,500 barrels under the proration agreement before producers in other parts of California will agree to further curtailment of their own output.

Texas Commission Blocked

THE TEXAS RAILROAD Commission has broad powers for controlling the production of oil, but producers have been able to get around its rulings by securing court injunctions against the commission. While suits are pending against the commission on proration rulings, the producers who have secured injunctions are permitted to operate without any restriction. In addition they will be subject to no penalty if they finally lose their cases in the courts.

About 25 producers in the East Texas field are violating proration orders. The Sinclair Oil and Gas Company was one of the last producers to secure a temporary injunction against the commission.

Potential Production

THE EXTENT OF THE menace of the East Texas oil field to the statistical position of the industry is indicated by the fact that there are 200 wells idle and not connected with pipe lines. The railroad commission has issued permits for the drilling of 69 additional wells in the district.

These additional wells threaten to further upset the oil trade unless drastic measures are taken to control the output of the field. The Texas Legislature at present is in special session in an attempt to find remedies.

Retail Competition Keen

THE DISCORDANT SITUATION in the producing fields has been reflected in keener competition in the retail marketing of gasoline. In Pittsburgh, the increasing supply of so called "bootleg" gasoline has forced the leading companies to place a third grade on the market. This sells for 10 cents a gallon, plus the three-cent tax, and offers direct competition to the stations which have been cutting in the sales of the better known brands with low priced fuel.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

Kitty Offered $50,000 to Help Arline Win Case

CHAPTER XXIII.

I reached up and grasped the wrist of her hand that was clutching my bare shoulder so painfully, and gave it a sharp twist.

Fanny Dutton uttered a little gasp of pain.

I stood up and smiled at her, as I didn't want a scene. Then I moved a chair over and told her to sit down. I didn't release her wrist until she did sit down.

"You heard what I said," she muttered. "Forrest belongs to me. There are plenty of others, you leave him alone."

"Suppose the cheap little skate doesn't intend to do anything of the sort?" I asked.

"You'll be sorry—he's just playing with you," she said, fiercely.

"I love to play around," I assured her.

Fanny Dalton leaned over to me, and her anger seemed to have departed for the moment. There was something rather piteous in her expression.

"You've heard of the girl, Folly, haven't you? She first keeps us smiling with her laughter and then annoys us with her sobbing. Is that clear to you?"

"Quite clear, only my name isn't 'Folly.' I like Forrest, and so long as he wants to take me places I am going. What is it to you?" I demanded.

"He's my man," she said, hotly.

"Are you married to him?"

"Don't be a fool."

FORREST DISTURBED

"I don't intend to be, Mrs. Dutton, and I don't intend to be annoyed by you or called a cheap skate. I am not a cheap skate and I am not, and never have been, any man's mistress. Suppose you sit here until Forrest comes back and let him decide this, and, furthermore, if you insult me again or lay your hands on me I'll slap your ears down so hard you can't pin 'em up with a crowbar—and is that clear to you?"

"You'll be sorry," she muttered, and before I could stop her she arose and hurried away. I looked around and caught sight of Forrest on the opposite side. He had seen Fanny and stood stock still, staring in surprise. Then he hurried over to me.

"Did she talk with you?" he asked. He seemed somewhat agitated.

"Oh, yes," I answered.

"Did she annoy you, Katie?"

"She wasn't very entertaining at first."

"Don't mind her, please. Fanny takes a little too much, and when she does she is disagreeable."

"Oh, let's forget it," I pleaded.

The waiter came out with the new champagne. Forrest seemed disturbed. He was usually so serene and pleasant that I noticed this. After the wine was opened he asked me what she said. I told him that he had asked me that once before, just to change the subject, but he knew better, and insisted.

"The little lady insisted that you belonged to her and that I was to keep away or else I would meet some terrible fate—she hinted that either she would annihilate me or you would do much worse."

"The little cat—I wish she wouldn't drink. Forget it. Fanny will laugh and apologize the next time she sees you."

SUSIE GETS DIVORCE

I knew better. Liquor or no liquor, Fanny was serious about Forrest Malvern. Evidently she didn't want to play around with anyone else, and she didn't propose to have anyone else play around with Forrest.

I didn't see the widow again that evening, and after a while Forrest was his old gay self again. We had a dandy time, and I thoroughly enjoyed it.

Things went on like this for quite a while. Every now and then Chubb Osmund would ask me if I had arrived at a decision about marrying him, and always I told him that it was too early—to wait a year.

We had parties of a dozen or more guests up in Forrest's bachelor home in the big cottage-like place on the roof of the apartment block. I learned that this block belonged to him, along with a number of others.

The Lawlor divorce case didn't create such a splurge as I expected, because some other big news happened at the time. But Susie won her divorce without the least trouble and also big alimony from Curt.

Susie came to me after the divorce. I was sure that Thad asked her to call, but she would never admit it.

"My dear," she said, "in winning my divorce like this it means that Thad will have no trouble at all. Proving his wife's guilt in my suit is all the proof he needs to get his own divorce."

"That's good, but it would have been better if Thad hadn't been such a fool as to marry her," I said.

"You ought to be good to Thad; he loves you, Katie."

"He had one swell way of proving it when he married Arline, and let's forget it."

Susie sighed and dropped the subject. It was agreed that she was to get the Long Island place, along with the settlement for her court expenses, and then a lump sum instead of alimony installments.

She was planning to go abroad and have a gay time. I certainly envied her, for she had forced a fortune out of Curt, and she had plenty in her own name. She was free as a bird and could play around to her heart's content.

HEARS FROM ARLINE

By this time it was mid-summer, or almost. I wanted to go somewhere on a vacation. I had never been away on a real one of two or more weeks. Viola wanted to visit her people up state, and I disliked to go alone.

We had saved plenty of money aside from the $200 Mrs. Miers had given us for our work at the fashion show. More than that, good Mrs. Miers promised to let me take all the newest sport suits and other gowns that I needed out of the sample stock. But it wouldn't look exactly right for me to go alone. Finally we decided that I would visit Viola's people up on the farm for a week and rest up, then she would go to some resort with me for two weeks.

Chubb Osmund was off somewhere on a friend's yacht. Forrest Malvern had gone to Bar Harbor, where he had a summer place on a little island. He had shown me the picture of it and about the only break he had ever made was a hint at the time that it would be wonderful if he and I could have a vacation there together.

I had answered, "Certainly—if we have a minister first."

He had laughed as if he considered this a joke.

While Viola and I were in the throes of planning this marvelous vacation I received a letter from no other person than Arline Parsons, wife of Thad!

She wanted to see me on an important matter, and would I come to her or would she come to me? I was going to forget it, but my curiosity got the best of me. I sent her a cold little note to the effect that if any traveling was done she would do it.

She was mighty swell in her imported clothes, but at that she had a distinctly worried look.

"The fact that you didn't butt into the Lawlor case and testify, gives me courage," was the way she started the talk.

"I wasn't interested," I assured her.

"Thad is going to try to divorce me."

"It won't be much of an effort, from all I hear and know," I said.

She seemed startled.

"You mean that you would testify against me to help him?"

"Not in a million years," I assured her.

"That's splendid of you. I know Thad will marry you if he can get rid of me—"

OFFERED $50,000

"You know something that is absolutely wrong. I'll never marry Thad," I declared.

"But he wants to marry you; didn't you know that?"

"I suspected it when he came to me and begged me to marry him as soon as he had divorced you," I confessed calmly.

She stared at me and her face turned red.

"What an amazing girl you are! Do you mean that you refused him?"

"I did, and if you try to testify in court that I told you he proposed to me before he was divorced I will call you a liar—there are only two of us here—"

"I had no intention of doing that. But Thad can't get rid of me so easy. I have a new and mighty clever lawyer—I shall fight him—and with your help he can't divorce me."

"With my help! As if I would," I cried.

"Oh, yes, you would, for say, $10,000; what a trip to Europe and what clothes that would mean to you," she exclaimed, smiling at me, quite confident that I would fall at her feet in ecstacy.

"I've got $10,000," I lied.

"Then make it fifty—my lawyer will tell you what to do. It will be simple. I want to get the divorce and make him pay me alimony. Will you do it for $50,000?"

"You mean for me to pretend that—that I was indiscreet with Thad?"

"Surely—what do you care, if you get that much money—will you do it?"

I thought for a moment.

"Why yes; I will do anything for $50,000," I told her.

(Does Kitty really mean what she says? You'll find the answer in tomorrow's exciting installment.)

Synopsis

Katherine Mason, a pretty little dress model, believes that life should consist of playing around and having a gay time. For this reason she jilts poor Peter Thompson to marry rich Thad Parsons. Thad marries a snobbish, worthless society girl, Arline Sargent. Six month later Arline is named in the Lawlor divorce case. Thad is going to divorce her, but Katie won't marry him. She is most impressed with Forrest Malvern, a wealthy man of 40, who used to be the "sugar daddy" of her friend, Dolly Hawkins, long since disappeared. Malvern's jealous sweetie, Fanny Hutton, finds Katie out with him and threatens to kill her if she doesn't leave him alone.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Doe and Roe

Policeman Tries to Frame Author After Raid

There were 32 in the bullpen, men and women, and for the most part a sad-looking lot of humans.

They had just been brought in, in two "wagons," from Sepia Sam's place as a result of a raid.

Business had been quiet in night court, but this promised to be interesting.

Two matrons herded the women over at one end and a couple of officers mingled with the men, although there wasn't much danger of any roughhouse amongst them.

One of the raiding policemen came in, eyed the bunch of women and singled out a girl of no more than 18. She was a badly frightened girl and her faced showed no ravages of "coke" or other dissipation.

The officer got her to one side.

"See that chap over there; the one with the bandage on his head?" he asked the girl.

"Yes, and it was a shame the way the policeman came along and struck him with his club when he was just sitting there, doing nothing—"

"I didn't ask you for any opinions. You were too stupid with snow to tell what was going on. He's the bird who pulled a gun on me and if I hadn't walloped him he'd have blown me down."

"He never made a move—"

"Get wise, you little sap. Do you want me to spring you?"

"What's that?"

"Never mind playin' innocent baby, do you want to get out of here, no fine or anything?"

"Of course, but they can't hold me, I didn't——"

"No? Well, they can shove you right into Bedford, get me? You ain't 21. Now, listen, when you're on the stand you remember you saw that bozo pull a gun on me and I had to sock him—and you're out, free—get me?"

PRISONERS CALLED

The girl eyed the man a moment.

"Yes—I—I get you."

He grinned.

"I knew you was a wise little skirt."

One by one they were called. Some had no desire to make excuses. Yes, they were at Sepia Sam's, having a little beer, that was all—well, they didn't know anything about any coke, if there was any found someone must have shoved it in their pocket when the bulls busted in.

A great many tried that.

The young man listened.

Some said they would wait and have a lawyer defend them. They were taken out, to be locked up until they could get bail or get a lawyer.

The young man with the bandaged head was put on the mat before the judge.

"Name?"

"John Doe."

The judged scowled.

An officer whispered to the clerk. The clerk scratched a note and passed it to the judge.

"You tried to shoot an officer of the law," the judge said.

"I had nothing more dangerous than a fountain pen, your honor."

"What were you doing there?"

"Looking around, getting first-hand information or, as some writers say, real atmosphere."

"So you are another author, eh?"

There was a grin among the patrolmen. The young man said nothing.

The officer was called. He told his story.

GIRL TESTIFIES

"This man here threw a package of something half way across the room, your honor, then he pulled a gun on me. Only because I was near enough to clip him on the head did I escape getting plugged. Here's his weapon."

"You're held," said the magistrate.

After a while the girl was before the judge.

"Name?"

"Jane Roe."

The girl looked at the young man beside the policeman with the bandage.

"What were you doing in that place?"

"A friend, an acquaintance, said it was a nice restaurant and dance hall. I'd never been out with him before. He rooms where I work for a gown shop—the gown shop is down stairs. I was begging him to take me home when the police rushed in and began clubbing everybody in sight—"

The policeman who had talked with her spoke to clerk.

"What about it, officer?" the magistrate asked.

"She sat next to him, your honor, she screamed when he pulled a gun on me—she saw it all."

"Tell the court, young woman."

"Jane Roe," hesitated, looked at the young man and turned to the bench.

"That young man did not have any gun. He did not throw anything. He was sitting perfectly still watching. He didn't even drink the drink in front of him. This policeman rushed up and beat him over the head from behind—"

"Don't lie, young woman!"

"That policeman came to me over there in that wire cage and told me that if I'd tell you I saw the young man try to shoot him he'd get me out and if I didn't he would send me to some place, Bedford, I think."

"They were puttin' their heads together in th' wagon, your honor, them two—they made it up on th' way down," the officer declared.

The young man jumped up and the cop tried to yank him down. This made the cut in his head bleed afresh.

"Let him talk," said the magistrate, who had ideas of his own about this couple. He had seen too many drug addicts and general bums to be mistaken. This couple didn't have the look or bearing.

"I was not put in the wagon with that young lady, your honor. I did see her at the place, and thought it a shame for a pretty little kid like that to be in such a place."

"Then you knew what it was?"

"Oh, yes, I went there because I was told about it. I wanted to see, first hand. Now as to this revolver on your desk I am going to ask you to protect my rights."

"What rights?"

"Keep it yourself. People have been framed not so long ago. I don't want the gun switched. The gun is numbered, the police department can trace guns by their numbers. Let it be traced, find out if it isn't some gun taken from some prisoner a while ago and planted. I haven't owned a gun since I was 12 and had a little .22 caliber derringer. Meanwhile, I would like to go bail for myself and the young lady if I may send for Mr. Jasper Mantley."

MAGISTRATE GIVES ORDERS

"Do you mean Col. Mantley, the lawyer?"

"Yes, your honor. He will probably be at the Upson Club; he stays there late on Thursday nights, playing bridge."

The magistrate gave some orders.

"John Doe" and "Jane Roe" were put in separate rooms, not cells.

Mr. Mantley came right over. He knew the magistrate well.

"I didn't expect you would come, when we told you that the man gave only Joe Doe," the magistrate said.

"He left word with me. He is a cautious young man. He knew that some day in his prowlings, or some night, there might be a raid. Let me talk with him."

"Who is he?" asked the magistrate.

"My client," Mr. Mantley said, smiling.

It didn't take long for Mantley to have both John Doe and Jane Roe out of there. Former Judge Mantley's word was sufficient.

The officer, getting a hot tip, saw Mr. Mantley for a moment.

"Sorry, I made a mistake, I see it now, it was a young feller in a blue shirt, looked like your client, that pulled the rod on me."

"Indeed?" said Mr. Mantley, making a mental note of the number on the badge, "so you got square with the rowdy who pulled the gun on you by turning around and beating up my client?"

"But honest—I can—I got proof—"

"You'll need it," Mantley said. Outside Mr. Mantley said: "Need any more, Joe?"

"No, sir, I am taking Jane Roe home."

He took her home, but by this time she was locked out.

"I'll take you to Mantley's home. I live in bachelor apartments, or I'd put you up," the young man said.

"Thanks, Joe."

VISITS JANET

"The name's Joseph Bradford, what's yours?"

"Honestly, it is Janet Rowe, so I didn't lie much."

"I owe you a lot, Janet."

"You'd have got off anyway."

"Not with the plant and not if you had told the story he wanted you to tell. I'll come around and see you tomorrow."

He went around to the little gown shop at noon. Janet was alone, the owner was out to dinner. The young man who took her to the joint, telling her it was respectable, came in and started to bawl her out.

Joe took him by the neck and bumped his head against the wall.

"It's bad business taking good girls out like that," Joe said, giving his head a knock with each word.

"Come on, Janet, get your things, come up to the shop," he said, naming one of the most exclusive in the city, "my mother owns it. She'll give you a real job."

"Oh, and do you work there, too, Joe?"

"No, I labor under the delusion that I can write novels and things."

"You could write a novel about this."

"No I couldn't. You see, Janet, I'm going to marry you some day and no one would ever believe a novel if I finished it like that!"

"Oh, I hope you'll succeed."

"In writing a novel or marrying you, Janet?"

"B—Both, Joe."

Independent Candidates

We Need Them for the Judiciary as Well as for the Other Places to Be Filled in the Fall.

Some of the candidates for the judiciary who failed to receive the Allegheny County Bar Association's indorsement are reported to be undecided as to whether or not to remain in the race.

The association showed good judgment in some of its selections—in the handsome vote given, for instance, to Common Pleas Judge Joseph Stadtfeld and County Court Judge Sara Soffel. It is not to be denied that its indorsement will be regarded as a recommendation for a candidate; but it does not follow that the failure of a candidate to receive a high vote in the association's balloting implies that he is unfit for the bench.

It is more or less traditionary for the association to indorse the candidacy of judges who are up for election. But the citizens at large feel bound by no such tradition. Therefore, other candidates who go before the people and speak plainly about the issues in the judiciary campaign, who stand on sensible platforms calling for the improvement of undesirable conditions in the courts—for the curtailment of the long summer suspension, for instance—may have a good chance of election.

Some of the candidates are debating in their minds if it will be worth their while to run in case the Republican machine puts out a judiciary slate. Well, Judges Martin, Gray and Patterson smashed the machine's slate four years ago.

The indorsement of the Republican machine may or may not help a candidate. It may prove a serious handicap. All the voters are not controlled by the Republican machine. A good many are suspicious of the machine, and would welcome an opportunity to vote for independent candidates, especially for the judiciary—candidates who they can be sure are under no obligations whatever to the political bosses.

This may be the year of years in which to run as an independent.

Missing Persons

To Give Youthful "Hitch-Hikers" a Ride May Be Helping Them to Run Away From Home.

The state police report they were asked during the first six months of the year to look for 893 missing persons. That is nearly twice as many as during the first six months of 1930, when the number was 468.

The increase is probably due to unsettled economic conditions.

A disturbing feature of the situation is that many of the missing persons are runaway boys and girls. It is much easier for boys and girls to run away now than it was before automobiles came into common use.

By begging rides along the highway runaways may put hundreds of miles between them and their homes before the police are notified of their disappearance.

That is one of a number of good reasons why motorists should ignore strangers' requests for rides.

Keep U. S. Out of Foreign Alliances, Mr. Hoover

Participation by Secretaries Stimson and Mellon in the London conference of heads of European states marks an important change in American foreign policy.

It is of paramount importance that the American people should not be committed to new arrangements without receiving a full opportunity to consider the risks involved.

For the first time since the signing of the UNSOUND Treaty of Versailles, to which the United States declined to become a signatory, its representatives are FULL-FLEDGED delegates at a European inter-governmental conference concerned with distinctly European questions.

The informal assurances that the Americans are to deal only with economic, and not political issues, HAVE LITTLE, IF ANY, MEANING.

They are only intended to GILD THE LILY FOR THEIR EFFECT ON HOME OPINION.

Politics and economics are indissolubly fused in European affairs, and when official meddling is sanctioned, it is difficult to draw fine spun, highly academic distinctions.

For 12 years, European propagandists have sedulously sought to reinvolve the United States in European entanglements.

The movement, which was checked when the United States Senate rejected Woodrow Wilson's scheme to get the United States into the League of Nations, has been revivified by Herbert Hoover.

The President, who has bided his time, waiting for an opportunity to tie up the United States with the affairs of Europe, is now proceeding WITH FULL STEAM AHEAD.

The immediate issue is to give economic relief to Germany—surely an important objective.

But the underlying hazard is in setting a precedent for involving the United States in the intrigues and competition of powers on another continent, which is madly indulging in latent warfare.

The United States, adhering to its traditional policies, wants to be a civilized neighbor in world affairs, but it also desires to MIND ITS OWN AFFAIRS AND TO AVOID PULLING OTHER NATIONS' POLITICAL CHESTNUTS OUT OF THE FIRE.

The collapse of Germany is in part at least traceable to the punic peace of Versailles, against which John Maynard Keynes and other economists warned the world more than a decade ago.

The United States, after the armistice, wisely refused to share in the spoils of war, and it should not allow itself to be drawn into Europe's next war.

An ardent advocate of drawing the United States into the League of Nations whirlpool, the Brooklyn Eagle, LET THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG.

"Putting it on its lowest terms," the Eagle said, in a recent editorial, "our enormous financial stake in the Reich must be protected, and if the price of that protection means American involvement in European politics, then that engagement must be faced."

IN OTHER WORDS, HERE IS AN IMPLIED PLEA FOR AMERICAN BAYONETS, IF NECESSARY, TO REDEEM THE PROMISES MADE TO INTERNATIONAL BANKERS HERE BY ALIEN GOVERNMENTAL DEBTORS.

WASHINGTON'S PRECIOUS WARNING AGAINST THE DANGER OF FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS SHOULD BE THE BEACON OF OUR FOREIGN POLICY.

In the line above the picture, we utilize apt alliteration's artful aid.

There are other alliterations that form in your fertile mind, such as:

Prohibition poisons politics.
Prohibition permits plunder.
Gangsters gather gold.
Beer, booze, bootlegging, banditry.

There is no end to the alliteration. But that is not what worries the little lady on the right, whose professional name is "Miss America's Prospects."

Thanks to old Prohibition, you will notice that we are missing America's prospects, about 100 per cent.

The hero is in the picture, as usual, upper left hand corner, but, unfortunately, there is a little something the matter with his means of locomotion.

However, William Tell didn't kill the little boy, and old Prohibition may not kill the little girl. Hope for the best, while you vote for common sense.

Organized Labor Urges A Prosperity Program

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, has placed the unemployment issue squarely up to President Hoover.

Well may Mr. Green express dissatisfaction with the inertia of the administration toward this domestic problem, because of the fine forbearance and co-operative spirit shown by his representative league of labor unions.

Ever since the White House conferences in November, 1929, organized labor has lived up to the informal economic truce.

Instead of upsetting the apple cart through fomenting social discontent, the labor leaders have worked harmoniously with business executives in the interest of stability.

Mr. Green and his associates have sought to aid the President's program of business stabilization.

But Mr. Green has found that the President's program has been sporadic and in a larger sense ineffectual.

AS the most authoritative spokesman in the United States for organized workingmen, Mr. Green shares the fears of numerous outside observers of a third winter of acute unemployment.

He knows that the third winter would be worse than the others, from a human standpoint, because the unemployed have at length dissipated their savings, and the resources of private charity have to some extent been exhausted.

In his recent address before the International Longshoremen's Association in New York, Mr. Green uttered these memorable words:

"I can't see why, if it was proper to appropriate billions for war, in an emergency of this kind, perhaps more menacing to the safety of our institutions and our republic, it would be improper to appropriate billions to carry on constructive enterprises so that millions of men may have work."

The Hearst newspapers, thinking in a like channel, have been advocating a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan for social reconstruction and the return of normal business. It has been suggested that the proceeds be expended for public works along the general lines outlined by Mr. Hoover himself in his Palo Alto acceptance speech.

THE proposal to redeem the unemployed from idleness through public works is in accord with the progressive thinking of the leading scientific economists of our time.

As a matter of fact, the principle of expanding public works in time of acute industrial depression was urged by the body of experts appointed by the President's conference on unemployment in 1921, of which Mr. Hoover was chairman.

The report of this committee, published in 1923 under the sponsorship of Mr. Hoover, clearly warned: "The essential steps in any general program are to plan construction work, private or public, LONG IN ADVANCE with reference to the cyclical movement of business, and in the case of public work to pass the necessary legislative appropriations when facts about the trend of business show that it is sound policy to spend money for such purposes."

In the foreword to this report, Mr. Hoover, who was then considered the white hope among liberals, declared: "No waste is greater than unemployment; no suffering is keener or more fraught with despair than that due to inability by those who wish to work to get jobs."

AT this critical juncture Mr. Hoover must decide whether he can find "a moral equivalent for war" in the great economic emergency.

He must decide whether to take counsel with his own previously expressed convictions and with the principal scientific economists and social workers of the country, or with reactionary banking and commercial executives who before the panic led the parade of inflation, which inevitably brought a severe reaction.

Mr. Hoover must choose between courageous, creative thinking, on the one hand, and timidity, inertia, old fogyism, and a do-nothing fatalism, on the other.

By taking the initiative in the debt moratorium, Mr Hoover broke with the policy of aloofness and laissez faire.

If the distressed Germans warranted remedial attention, what of the 6,000,000 unemployed Americans?

It would seem the part of wisdom for the President to summon Congress in special session to act on the prosperity loan, so that plans for intelligent, economical spending can be formulated and revised in time to meet the emergency.

The Much-Married Woman

When a stage beauty or a rich or successful woman goes in for progressive marriage and finds life just one husband after another, and just one marital mistake after another, it is not always because she is a temperamentalist or a varietist. It is more often because she is an idealist and an optimist.

She is always fondly hoping to find the perfect love and the ideal man—and if she never finds him, it is because of her poor judgment in selection and her poor taste in men.

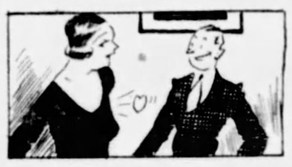
Some women seem to have a natural genius for gathering lemons in the garden of love. If you should lead a woman like that to a conclave of the saints, she would look around and find some little imp who had slipped in when the guard wasn't looking. And fall for him!



Some women can never resist a charming playboy. The man with whom such a woman goes to the altar each time may part his hair a different way, wear different clothes and have a different shade of eyes. But he is, in reality, in character, temperament and habits just the same man as all her former husbands—and she is letting herself in for all the same old troubles and disappointments.

A charming playboy usually makes an ideal lover, but he is a washout as a husband. No matter how much money and leisure a woman may have, she can't afford such an expensive decoration or such a nerve-wearing pet around the house.

* * *

So, after the glamour of the honeymoon and the gloss of illusion have worn off, she is glad to trade him in for a pair of Pekingese or anything else that only has to be fed and coddled, and doesn't borrow her money.

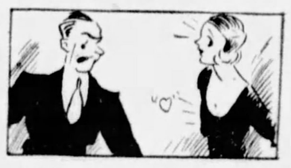
Another type of woman goes in for adolescents. She cannot say no to any man who wants to be "mothered." She is always taking a boy to raise—and then discovering that there are some men who never grow up. And wishing that she could turn her spoiled darling over to a trained nurse.



Still another sort of woman has a weakness for the woman-chaser—the man with a dark raspberry "past," who is known as a conqueror of women. She always fondly hopes that "THIS time, he's serious—and it's real love."

Other women have a weakness for the caveman, bullying type—the masterful he-man, who wants to run a woman's life and chose everything for her, from her pastimes, friends and interests to the brand of her tooth paste. That's all very well during the courtship, when it's fun to play the clinging vine to the great, big sturdy oak. But there always comes a time when a modern woman yearns to get out of the shade and do a little basking in the sunlight, herself.

* * *

But, whenever you read of a much-married woman who is going to take a long shot on marriage, again, you can set her down as a poor picker, whose heart is as true as steel—to one type of man! The champion optimist!

FRANCE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, July 22.—No place in all the world is so restful to me as the Bois. I spend far more time there while in Paris than I do along the boulevards. I know of no word that describes this great wooded space so well as "liquid"—a sort of wet green shimmer of exquisite loveliness.

The trees, the grass and the many cool walks in the Bois seem to take on especial grandeur, the beauty of languor, repose and exoticism. It is said, and one can well believe it, that 98 per cent of the proposals of marriage among Parisians are made in the Bois.

I was reared in a rural community, but somehow never took particular notice of trees. But in the Bois they take on a positive personality. You become familiar with lop-sided magnolias, the cypress, chestnuts in fan spreads, cedars bursting into clumps of pin pricks—all gently swaying and whispering.

One may walk through a leafy square treed tunnel and emerge suddenly upon gurgling water falling into a pond dotted with graceful swans. This morning the Bagatelle, that circular rosarium laid out for a king's mistress, was literally aflame with red roses. Through another woods and a bright field of daisies.

On bench sat old ladies with their fox terriers—ladies who hobble to the Bois on rubber tipped canes at sun up and remain until dusk. Black-gloved Frenchman in an effluvium of pomade and perfume. A red wheeled metered fiacre rattles by. A tally ho. And a dog cart with master and groom back to back.

Over along the grassy banks of the Seine eternally patient fishermen always standing up in statuesque supplication. Barges, with families in the little coop in the rear, drift by. Comic opera side-wheeled excursion steamers paddle merrily. A darting scull of athletes. Family washing boats. Canoes.

The Bois knows no emotional restraint. Lovers seem to seek the bold little hills for their puppyish pawings, hugging and kissing openly. Sweethearts in fond embrace halt in their strolls, starry eyed, to exchange long, lingering smacks. I love the woods!

This evening I jogged along the gray quays—up to the Ile de la Cite, the original site of Paris, on the right bank and down the left. Most of the buildings along the quays are the ancient structures of the post cards—seventeenth and eighteenth century mansions of a shower day. Royalty is written in their now scabrous texture. At the side of each barn-like doorway sits the inevitable black-frocked concierge, ferret-eyed, heavily mustached and knitting. The famed restaurants Laperouse and Tour d'Argent, on the left side, were almost completely desolated, adding to the general gloom. It was cheerful to return to the brilliantly lit Place de la Concorde and the high spraying fountains.

Strolls around Paris backwaters this trip are shorn of the extraordinarily fine companionship of the late Will Hogg. This time last year we prowled together—as we did on many similar excursions—then we motored to Berlin, took leave of one another and I was not to see him again in this world. It will never be quite the same Paris without him. No one knew the Paris the tourist never sees so well nor loved it more.

Apple cheeked Frank, of the Ritz bar, is as much of a fixture in Paree as the Napoleonic colonnade in Place Vendome. He was burlesqued in the music play hit "Twenty Million Frenchman" on Broadway. Cole Porter, who wrote it, is Frank's very close friend. The Ritz bar from 6 until 9 p. m. suggests the old Knickerbocker bar in its hey-dey. Tonight I saw there Erskine Gwynne, the blond American "play-boy;" Michael Arlen, Richard Le Gallienne, Gilbert White and, of course, Lou Hauser. Americans often set watches by Hauser's arrival at the Ritz bar. For 15 years he has entered the rue Cambon entrance promptly at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Habitues will wager any amount his timing will not vary three seconds. And there is no record of one losing a bet.

Across the hall from the Ritz bar is the ladies' cocktail salon. Ladies may enter unescorted but no gentleman without a lady. It is a darkly timbered, airless and almost windowless small room, about 30 by 30. And from 6 to 9 is packed to suffocation. Sometimes attendants have scarcely room in which to carry blottoed ladies out, feet up, to fresh air. I have seen six trundled out in one evening.

Erskine Gwynne says things are so tough that Parisian professional guides are showing each other places.

MASTER BIO-CHEMIST

By Archibald Henderson

A surgeon, in one of his aspects, is a specialist who builds up imperfect and impaired bodies. He may desire a mechanism to enable a lame man to walk, and he may develop a method for grafting skin on to the face. The bio-chemist has a somewhat similar function, although he functions in the field of chemistry instead of that of surgery.

The principal object of the bio-chemist is to discover new remedies for diseases. A pharmacopeic lists hundreds, thousands, of drugs, their functions and curative properties. But this, after all, is only a small beginning. There are many diseases, ailments, afflictions of the human body for which helpful and curative treatments have not yet been found. The job of the bio-chemist is to discover new remedies for diseases, or to develop those which are only partially satisfactory. According to Haldane, a bio-chemist provides chemical splints for damaged organs.

J. B. S. Haldane, whose book Possible Worlds and other notable prophecies of the future of civilization have attracted wide attention, has had a long and remarkable career as a bio-chemist. His father was famous as the author of Mechanism, Life and Personality; and he himself has been experimenting on himself, either under his father's direction or voluntarily for his own purposes, ever since he was four years old. If he should ever write his autobiography, he might happily entitle it, as he once did one of his scientific papers: "On Being One's Own Rabbit."

J. B. S. Haldane declares that he is a "rotten observer," although he has been taking notes of experiments ever since he was eight years old. Like Aston, of Cambridge. Haldane is remarkably ingenious in devising experiments which will clear up problems. Aston has extraordinary skill in devising complicated apparatus for attaining important scientific results.

Haldane was the subject for harmless experiments at the age of 4, under his father's direction. At 9, he was going down coal mines, testing the breathability of the air. At another time, while quite young, he allowed himself to be shut up in an air-tight box in order to get a qualitative record of expansion when the subject was breathing certain mixtures of gases.

Subjects for studying which have particularly attracted Haldane's attention are oxygen as a medicine, water poisoning, and the disease of tetany. In the last case, wishing to liberate a quantity of hydrochloric acid in his system, he ate a lot of ammonium chloride. His blood lost 10 per cent of its volume, his weight dropped seven pounds in three days, and his liver behaved in a highly abnormal manner. The result of the experiment was the discovery of a cure for tetany, a disease from which children suffer.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Match correctly:

1. John Andre	known as "Stonewall"
2. David Farragut	the sage of Concord
3. Thomas Jackson	landscape painter
4. Edwin Blashfield	English spy
5. Vasco da Gama	captured New Orleans
6. George Inness	lost life in American Revolution
7. Christopher Carson	mural painter
8. Ralph W. Emerson	former Ambassador to England
9. Nathan Hale	opened up all-water route to China
10. John W. Davis	guide and trapper

Do you know:

11. Who is the new Liberian President?
12. How did Knut Hamsun gain fame?
13. What in Norse mythology is Valahalla?
14. When was the American Legion founded?
15. What is velocity?

Answers to today's test:

1. English spy. 2. Captured New Orleans. 3. Known as "Stonewall." 4. Mural painter. 5. Opened up all-water route to China. 6. Landscape painter. 7. Guide and trapper. 8. The sage of Concord. 9. Lost life in American Revolution. 10. Former Ambassador to England. 11. Edwin Barclay. 12. Norwegian novelist who won Nobel prize for literature. 13. Palace inhabited by souls of slain heroes. 14. 1919. 15. Rate at which bodies change position in space.

Text For Today

1 John, iv:12.

No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. John Ray Ewers, pastor, East End Christian Church.)

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Are you faithful to your husband?

Beryl Shaw thought she was. She had "never looked at another man." But when she returned, unexpected, from her vacation and found the little, lace handkerchief which was the damning evidence of her husband Charles' one misstep in six, steadfast years, she—

You can read about it in that revolting, clever, tragically true book "BREAK-UP" by Hager Wilde. It's a book about a certain class of modern men and women ...pampered, sterile, gaga lives that fizzle out like wet firecrackers.

Beryl couldn't get over that little lace handkerchief. It was abominable to her. It was abominable to Charles too, although she didn't try to discover that. It was evidence to him that he had made a fool of himself, done something he had never expected to do, didn't really want to do, would never do again. It meant that he had sold himself out... and he was in desperate need of help to regain his own honor and pride.

It was really Beryl's Big Chance—but she couldn't see that, couldn't realize Charles' need. She was too busy thinking about herself . . . thinking how Charles had disappointed her, failed her, wronged her . . . planning how Charles must be punished. So she nagged. Nagged. Nagged. Nagged. Until the inevitable happened. Charles bolted. Then, furious, broken-hearted, she cried—

"I've always been so faithful to him!"

"UNTIL HE NEEDED YOUR FAITH!" answered her sister.

Beryl stared indignantly at that answer. Many a wife will stare indignantly. In the wife jargon, "faithfulness" means but one thing . . . physical fidelity . . . a loyal body. But how about the disloyal MIND? How about the spirit that wallows in anger and suspicion, regardless of the other's need? ISN'T SUCH SPIRITUAL UNFAITHFULNESS AS VILE AS INFIDELITY OF THE BODY?

What do we mean by "faithfulness"? We say that we "believe in" people . . . that we'll "stick by them." But we don't really believe in them. We only believe in THAT PART OF THEM WHICH SUITS OUR NOTIONS. And we'll only stick by them as long as they do THOSE THINGS OF WHICH WE APPROVE. When some other part of their nature is revealed which we do not like, what do we do? Do we try to adjust ourselves to this unpleasant revelation? Do we stop and think how this new trait may complicate life for them . . . so that they may need our help more than they ever have before?

No, indeed! We immediately proceed to become shocked, indignant. We feel that we, personally, have been deceived—cheated . . . that our "faith has been betrayed."

"I'm so disappointed in Mary!" we say. "I never thought she'd act like that."

But what right have we to be "disappointed" in Mary or to decide how she shall act? Mary, herself, doesn't know how she will act. She is surprised, humiliated, heart-broken at her own action. Her pride is in the dust. She needs terribly, to believe in herself again. Only our faith can make her believe in herself again. And where is our faith, when she needs it? Off in a corner, pouting because it has been "disappointed"...being sorry for itself because Mary has "wronged" it!

WHAT IS FAITHFULNESS? IS IT TRUSTING A HUMAN AS LONG AS HE DOES THE THINGS THAT YOU LIKE? OR TRUSTING HIM ANY WAY, REGARDLESS OF WHAT HE DOES?

Isn't It So?

Nice people are those who break the law only for pleasure.

A well-educated girl today is one who crosses her "t's," but not her knees.

You can always save a lot of time by letting the other man have the last word.

About all some of us get from the cover of a seed catalog is an idea of what is being done elsewhere.
